

Slowdown at Dusk?

Night Limit For Speed Considered

Reliable sources indicated yesterday that British Columbia traffic officials will initiate a study of whether establishing different night and day speed limits on provincial highways is desirable.

"In view of the findings of the report (by the 60-mile-an-hour speed limit committee) it would be expected the desirability of day and night speeds would be considered," Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday.

Although full statistics are not available on daytime and night-time accidents, one section of the report of the 60-mile-an-hour speed limit committee says that on a test strip west of the road to Englishman's River Falls Park a concealed radar check showed that after dark 8 per cent of the cars were going over 65 miles an hour, but in the daytime hours only 2 per cent of the cars travelled over 65 miles an hour.

The section tested is in one of the new 60-mile-an-hour

zones and is on a straight stretch of first-class highway. The report does not indicate whether night-time speedup is general everywhere.

In addition to relying on RCMP accident reports, the highways department has had its own radar cars out, merely to observe and not to enforce the laws.

It has found that 85 per cent of drivers obey the speed laws. Separate speed laws for trucks may also be considered by B.C. traffic officials.

It was pointed out yesterday that Alberta has a 60 and sometimes 65-mile-an-hour daytime speed limit for passenger cars and a 50-mile-an-hour after-dark speed limit. For trucks the Alberta speed limit on open highways is 50 miles an hour.

Separate Limits in Force

Manitoba has a 60 daytime speed limit, a 50 after-dark speed limit and a 50 limit for trucks at all times; Nova Scotia has a 60 speed limit for both trucks and cars at all times on open highways; Prince Edward Island limit is 50 for cars and 40 for trucks at all times; and Quebec has a 60 limit for cars and a 45 limit for trucks.

In the United States Massachusetts has a 40-mile-an-hour open highway speed limit for all vehicles and also has one of the best safety records on the continent.

Some 23 states in the U.S. have different speed limits on the open highways for day-time and after dark use. Some 34 have different speed limits (all slower) for trucks than for private cars. Four states have no specific speed limits, but regulate speeds according to what is considered reasonable and prudent.

Fastest states on the continent are Illinois, Missouri and New Mexico where daytime 70-mile-an-hour speed limits exist on superhighways and long straight stretches.

In British Columbia, where 22 zones are now rated as 60-mile-an-hour zones, the highway death rate continues to climb with 39 deaths recorded so far in August, already five more than that for all of August last year.

"It seems to be more than a coincidence that the increased speed limit and the increase in highway deaths have been recorded within the last several months," motor vehicles superintendent George Lindsay said.

He made his statement after

Premier Buys Bonds on Installment Plan

First man to buy a Pacific Great Eastern five per cent parity bond was PGE president, Premier Bennett, who yesterday ordered two $1,000 bonds on payroll deduction plan offered to civil servants and MLAs. He will have $172 a month deducted from his salary for 12 months, starting in November. The deduction is unlikely to pinch the premier financially—he has considerable private means. It will cost employees $8.60 a month for 12 months for $100 bond, described by premier as "better than money." Some $10,000,000 in bonds go on sale generally Sept. 1 and are effective Sept. 15. With the premier are, left, Peter F. Ramsay, personnel officer in department of finance, and right, economic adviser J. V. Fisher.

Slum Girl Rites In Rich Church

By JACK V. FOX

NEW YORK (UPI)—A little Negro girl from the slums of the Lower East Side had her funeral last night in the richest and most famous church in all of New York.

Theresa Gee, 15, was given last rites in Trinity Church—where Alexander Hamilton's funeral was held 155 years ago and in whose tiny old graveyard at the head of Wall Street are buried such famous Americans as Robert Fulton.

Cyprus Slaying Breaks Truce

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—Two gunmen killed a policeman yesterday in the first such incident since the Greek Cypriot underground called it quits six months ago.

Sgt. Selim Mustafa, 38, was ambushed at a service station in the Turkish quarter by two men in gangland style.

The Turkish-Cypriot officer, a member of the police special branch, crumpled to the ground after the bandits fired a dozen shots from automatic pistols. The gunmen fled in a car.

It was reliably learned Mustafa had been investigating an underground Turkish youth organization.

Police officials declined to say whether the killing was of a political nature. Mustafa was the first policeman killed in Cyprus since last February when the Greek-Cypriot terrorist organization EOKA laid down its arms after Britain agreed to give the island independence.

Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot leaders have called for non-violence by their followers. But police recently found an ammunition dump during a raid.

'Let Peace Be Her Memorial'

Theresa Gee's claim to fame was that she was shot to death on the tenement streets Sunday night in another of the senseless and brutal juvenile gang wars that have terrorized New York all this hot summer.

Europe's Highest Incognito Cardinal Masters Mountain

COURMAYEUR, Italy (AP)—The youngest cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church has climbed Europe's highest mountain.

Julius Cardinal Dopfner, 46-year-old Bishop of Berlin, climbed 15,781-foot Mont Blanc 11 days ago incognito with three other priests.

The four priests wore rough mountain clothing and identified themselves only to the parish priest at Courmayeur, whom the cardinal asked for permission to celebrate mass in his church. They pledged him to keep their identities secret until after they left.

The cardinal and his companions set out Aug. 16 with Alpine guide Aldo Ollier and his son, spent the night on straw in a hut with a group of Alpine soldiers and began the ascent at 1.30 a.m. They reached the top at 8 a.m.

Later the parish priest told Ollier one of his customers had been a cardinal.

"If I'd known it, I wouldn't have used such a rough tone giving him orders during the climb," the guide said.

Usually-Calm City Cheers and Weeps

LONDON (UPI)—Hundreds of thousands of weeping, cheering Britons turned out last night to welcome President Eisenhower who flew here from West Germany on the second lap of his dramatic Western European swing.

Police estimated that from 500,000 to "over 1,000,000" persons lined a 16-mile route from London Airport to the U.S. Embassy residence to hail the American president.

Normally staid Londoners wept unashamedly as Eisenhower drove through the streets of the city. They cried, "Well done, Ike," and "Hip, hip hooray."

V FOR VICTORY

Eisenhower, his eyes moist with emotion, waved happily to the crowd and made the "V" for victory sign.

The president had flown in from Bonn, where he had six hours of cold war talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

'BOMB-RATTLING'

Eisenhower told an extraordinary news conference in the West German capital that he deplored "bomb-rattling" tactics in world diplomacy and that he believed his coming talks with Nikita Khrushchev might "melt the ice" of the cold war.

LOOKED FRESH

But the U.S. president still managed to look fresh when he stepped from his Boeing 707 jet at London Airport.

In a formal speech at the airport, he pledged full U.S. support to Britain "in the defence of freedom, liberty and the dignity of man."

UNPRECEDENTED

Then he entered a Rolls Royce with Prime Minister Macmillan at his side and drove to the residence of U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney through crowd scenes that were almost unprecedented in the history of this city.

Wave upon wave of usually solemn Londoners smashed the thin blue lines of police that vainly tried to clear a path for the president's car.

A senior police official said: "I have been on the force for over 25 years and this is the largest crowd I have ever seen."

Today Eisenhower left London by RAF jetliner to visit Queen Elizabeth at Balmoral Castle.

Summit Farther Away?

BONN, Germany (AP)

President Eisenhower dropped a hint Thursday before leaving for London that the West may insist on another foreign ministers' conference at Geneva before any summit meeting takes place.

Authoritative informants indicated Chancellor Konrad Adenauer suggested a further meeting of foreign ministers when he and Eisenhower met Thursday.

A press conference remark by Eisenhower later seemed to indicate Adenauer's suggestion had met a favorable reception. Eisenhower said "any summit meeting . . . would be a grave mistake unless there was confidence among all of us that real progress of some kind could be achieved."

Such progress, the president continued, must be promised "by either further meeting or further consultation or conclusions of the foreign ministers—or in some other way."

He didn't say what the other way might be but in response to a question he indicated he would be satisfied if "assurances . . . would be given publicly" by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Some officials said a meeting of the foreign ministers might be held in Geneva some time in November after the exchange of visits between Eisenhower and Khrushchev.

Chinese Attack India

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru told the Indian Parliament today that the Chinese Communists have forcibly occupied Indian territory in the Ladakh region of Kashmir state despite Indian protests.

The Chinese, he said, had claimed the territory as their own and had arrested an Indian reconnaissance party which had been sent to the border.

Two days ago northeast frontier agency authorities denied a report published by the Assam Tribune saying that 1,600 Chinese troops armed with modern weapons had crossed the Indian border at the Nathu la Pass.

Secret Jet Bits Found

LONDON (AP)—A piece of wreckage found on a Welsh beach was identified Thursday as part of the secret Victor jet bomber which vanished on a test flight last Thursday. Ministry of Supply experts said the wreckage belonged to the plane, which presumably exploded high in the air. Five persons were aboard the big crescent-winged bomber.

Premier Bennett said Thursday his government is ready to discuss Alaska-British Columbia co-operation on northern development, but no formal approaches for a meeting have been made by either government.

He declined, however, to comment on the possibility of B.C. corridors through the Alaska Panhandle.

The premier was commenting on a speech by Governor William Egan of the new state of Alaska at Kitimat Tuesday.

The governor urged co-operation on power, development of new industries and on Panhandle corridors to give Alaskans access to the B.C. road system and B.C.-Yukon industry access to tidewater ports.

Novelist's Lament

No Cash, No Furs, No Caviar

LONDON (UPI)—Novelist A. J. Cronin complained yesterday that the Russians would not even pay him in caviar or furs for the 3,000,000 copies of his books sold in the U.S.S.R.

Cronin, author of "The Citadel" and "The Keys of the Kingdom," described his 23-year fight for Russian royalties in a letter to the editor of The Daily Telegraph.

"I began around 1936 on a note of justified indignation; when this failed I followed up with a plea to the committee's sense of undoubted fair-play, and tried again some years later on a softer note, referring to the needs of my children and, starving relations."

"The next effort, at a considerably later date, was facetious; as I suggested that if currency was not available a fur coat for my wife would be very acceptable. This was treated with contemptuous silence."

Cronin then suggested payment in the form of a trip to Russia because he "wanted to see the pictures in the Hermitage (Leningrad art gallery) before an errand mission from Cape Canaveral should disperse them."

He had no luck with these tactics.

"Finally, at the beginning of this year, in despair, I offered to conclude the entire affair for a small consignment of beluga caviar," he added. "So far this has not arrived."

"Meanwhile, I receive from my Russian readers an enormous effusive fan mail and requests for autographs and photographs. This is undoubtedly the unkindest cut of all."

Cronin wrote the newspaper to commiserate with the heirs of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who were refused payment for Russian-language Sherlock Holmes books.

Russia Won't Pay

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE taxi-driver told me about his early days with cabs and buses in London, half a century ago, when horse-drawn vehicles ruled the streets, and motor cars were treated as intruders.

"Any trouble with an 'orse, and it was 'Fined five pound.' Allus said the same thing. 'Fined five pound.'"

He spoke of steam buses, gas-electric buses, and certain vehicles that were known to the trade as "baked 'tater tins."

Now he was driving a taxicab in Cheltenham. I extracted those memories from him as he drove me to visit some people whose address had been given me by a friend in Victoria.

He deposited me at the door of Leckhampton Court, a big stone house of considerable age. There I met Mr. and Mrs. Paul Saunders, who run a boys' school.

Mr. Saunders told me that he had spent his life partly in Boston (where his father had had business interests) and partly in England. He got along with Americans, but felt more at home in England.

I think the world would benefit if there were a large group of international people, able to interpret the feelings of one country to another. Sending people abroad when they are grown up just isn't good enough. Their ideas are set by then. A way should be found to exchange numbers of school children and their families for two or three years at a time.

Leckhampton Court was built by the Gifford family in the 14th century. It passed through a daughter to the Norwoods, who had it for 300 years; and at last was bought by the Hargreaves. Successive owners made repairs and additions to it.

In 1914-18 the big house was a hospital, and in 1939-45 it housed prisoners of war. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders found it in a derelict condition, riddled with leaks. They camped in various rooms while repairing the house for use as a school.

I looked at the lofty ceilings, the paneled walls, the stone stairs and stone floors with hollow places worn by the tread of armored and leather-clad feet for 500 years.

"Any ghosts?" I asked.

He said, with almost an air of apology, that there were. Footsteps were often heard. Doors which had clicked firmly shut sometimes flew open mysteriously. A guest in the house had once seen a pair of disembodied legs, wearing boots, going up the stairs.

"I didn't believe in ghosts when I came here," he said. "But I tried all sorts of explanations, and none of them seemed to fit."

Sometimes when Mr. Saunders is working in his study (a 14th-century room) he hears footsteps overhead in the room that used to be Lady Gifford's. There is never anyone in the room. An officer who slept in Lady Gifford's old room during the 1914-18 war was said to have found that all his clothes had been removed in the night and scattered in the room below.

He blamed his batman. But next night he bolted all his doors on the inside, and again his clothes were removed in the night and scattered below—as if there were someone or something there that resented his presence.

Sounds of laughter and music are sometimes heard through the panelling in the direction of the banquet hall. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders have never seen the two most famous apparitions that are reputed to be seen at Leckhampton Court: A spectral pack of hounds which come racing up the private road from the parish church on midsummer night; and the coach which follows the same route on New Year's Eve.

The Saunders feel that the ghosts of Leckhampton—if they really exist—are mild-tempered ghosts which mean no harm.

Slower Speed At Night?

A 60-mile-an-hour speed limit committee had reported that on three new 60 zones on selected pieces of highway, the accident incidence has been no worse than last year when they were 50-mile-an-hour zones.

But Mr. Lindsay found some general indication that B.C. drivers are driving faster. The report showed that when the limit was 50 miles an hour, eight per cent of the drivers were clocked at 60 miles an hour or more; with the 60-miles-an-hour speed limit, 9.3 per cent of the drivers were clocked at 60 miles an hour or more. He said the report indicates the new 60 limits are encouraging more drivers to speed up.

"Our difficulty rests with between eight and nine per cent of the drivers," Mr. Lindsay said. "On the whole the drivers are good."

"My concern is the loss of life on our highways. I am informed the attorney-general will cause further investigation to be made, and undoubtedly these factors will be considered then."

Mr. Lindsay agreed with Highway Minister Gagliardi that liquor is a big cause of accidents, but would not go so far as Mr. Gagliardi and say liquor is involved in 80 per cent of accident cases.

The American Medical Association, he said, believes that liquor is involved in 50 to 60 per cent of the accidents in the United States.

Meanwhile, reports issued yesterday from Mr. Lindsay's office showed there were 30 fatal accidents on B.C. highways in July of this year, compared with 17 in July, 1958.

In the 30 fatal accidents some 33 deaths were recorded. In July, 1958, there were 19 deaths.

Accidents in July were up 5.47 per cent over July, 1958, to 1,811 from 1,717, and injuries were up 15.17 per cent, to 911 from 791 in July, 1958. Property damage is up to $915,979.73 in July accidents, compared with $854,830.14 in July, 1958, an increase of 3.88 per cent.

Up until July 31 of this year there had been a 20 per cent increase in fatalities on B.C. highways, 155 compared with 129 last year at the same time. But highway deaths are still soaring and have now reached a total of 196 for this year.

Motor vehicle licences issued in B.C. have jumped 28,279, or 5.9 per cent to the end of July.

Victorians Capture 14 Awards

Victoria and Vancouver Island students have captured 14 of 42 university scholarships announced for British Columbia yesterday and a former Victoria boy has been awarded a four-year Royal Canadian Navy scholarship at the university of his choice.

Roger Steed, 18, eldest son of Graham Steed, former organist at Victoria's Christ Church Cathedral and now a resident of Riverside, Ont., was awarded the navy scholarship under the ROTC plan.

Roger is at present visiting Victoria at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Greenhill, 1067 St. David's Street.

Winners of $250 University of British Columbia Alumni Association scholarships for university study were Paul James, Wilson, Cumberland, and Margaret Joan Lendrum, Victoria.

British Columbia Forest Products scholarships for children of employees going from high school to university were awarded to Daniel Joseph Brown, 764 Lampson; Sandra Jo-Anne Johnston, 958 Lampson; and Philip Leroy Cottell, Ladysmith.

Scholarships from B.C. Forest Products for beginning or continuing university went to Lois Alice Halls, 1141 Palmer Road ($300); Judith Isabelle Hirst, 112 Clarence ($200); Dennis M. Holden, Crofton ($250); Digby Robin Kier, Youbou ($300); Kenneth James Long, Youbou ($300); James Arthur Mackie, Youbou ($250); and Margaret K. Rennie, Crofton ($300).

Company bursaries will go to Carol Anne Smith, 3868 Carol Road ($200); Elwin Chester MacDonald, Youbou ($300).

Doomed Wife Dies at Last

Radium Victim

CHICAGO (AP) — Another member of a doomed group of women who in the 1920s painted radium on watch dials has died.

Mrs. Beatrice Workman, 54, died Tuesday. An autopsy showed death was from radium poisoning.

Her husband, Thomas, 57, told reporters his wife had suffered from effects of the radium poisoning for 30 years.

Before her marriage in 1923, Mrs. Workman was one of a group of girls working at the Radium Dial Company in Ottawa, Ill. It was their job to paint the numbers on watch faces with radium, so the dial would glow in the dark.

To keep the brushes pointed, the girls often licked the brush with their tongues before dipping it in a radium salt solution.

They didn't know it, but they were slowly being poisoned. Today, it would be called radiation.

The Ottawa group totalled about 25 girls. How many still survive is not known. Hundreds of other women in similar jobs throughout the country also fell victim to the poisoning.

More than a dozen of the Ottawa group later sued for damages. The only one to win—Mrs. Catherine Donohue—was dead before she could collect the $7,500 awarded her.

Many others died within a short time, not knowing the cause. Others died lingering, horrible deaths.

Winter Work Mapped

With total employment seekers at their lowest in two years here the Victoria winter employment campaign committee held its first meeting of the season this week to map out a program to keep things that way.

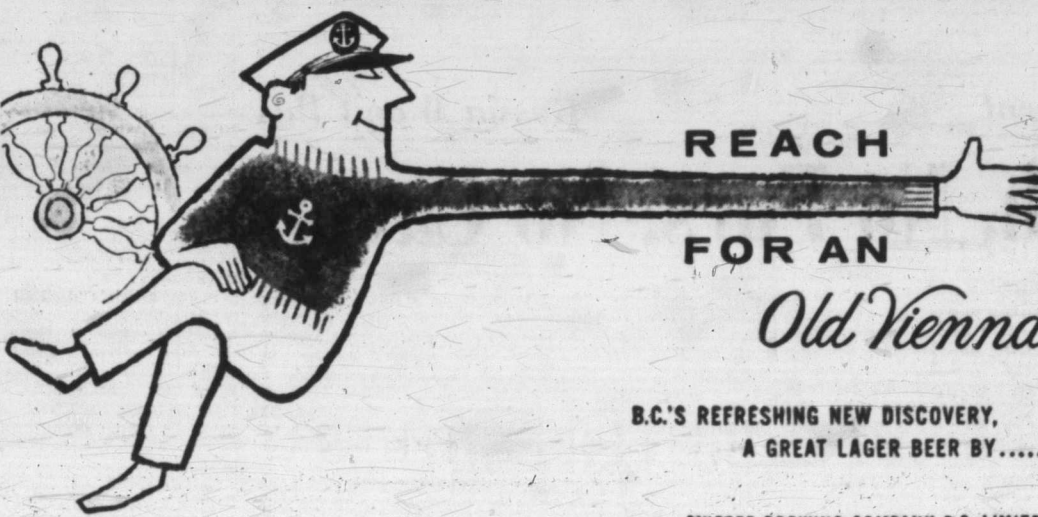

The committee, representing labor, industry, municipal offices, the National Employment Service and business, will shortly launch its annual "Plan Now" phase of the winter work program.

Reduction in unemployment is continuing, UIC officials reported earlier, with a total of 3,007 registered—a drop of 600 from one year ago.

Brothers Whisked into Plane As Reds, Newsmen in Melee

Iron Curtain Dropped Behind Chicago Boys

NEW YORK (UPI)—Soviet officials dropped the Iron Curtain around four young brothers from Chicago yesterday and whisked them off by plane for Russia, a land they have never seen.

Port authority policemen broke up an angry, shoving melee between newsmen and Russians who had formed a protective cordon around Richard Kozmin, 12, and his brothers, George, 11, Paul, 10, and Peter, 3.

Peter burst into tears and the Russians accused the newsmen of causing him to cry.

The boys' departure was a victory for the Russian government in two years of legal and diplomatic manoeuvring to reunite the boys with their parents, George and Nadejda Kozmin, who returned to the Soviet Union two years ago from Chicago.

But Boris Kolodyozhn, first secretary of the Soviet Embassy, had no words of gratitude for U.S. justice in permitting the boys to go to Russia. "American justice detained them for five years," he snapped. "They were taken from their parents. We are glad to deliver them back."

When the boys first got to the airport, newsmen got close enough to ask Richard if he planned to communicate with his friends and foster parents in Chicago.

His eyes glowed and he said: "Oh, and how I will! I will write to them as often as I can."

At this point, Jetiana Arbekova, a teacher and interpreter, tried to cut off the interview. But a reporter persisted and asked Richard what he was taking to his parents. He said he had an electric shaver for his father.

Fourteen of the Russians then surrounded the boys and moved the newsmen back. During the shoving, the Russians shouted, "Leave them alone; they've been harassed enough."

Their parents wound up in a displaced persons camp in Germany after the Second World War. Richard, George and Paul were born there. The boys were brought to Chicago by their parents in 1951.

Later the Kozmins were hospitalized for mental treatment, and the boys were placed in a children's home and a foster home. After leaving the hospital in 1957, the Kozmins decided to return to Russia.

Khrushchev Says:

Big Two Talks Turning Point For Cold War

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev said in a message published Thursday his forthcoming meetings with President Eisenhower probably will be "a historical turning point" in the cold war.

Khrushchev, in a note to West German Chancellor Adenauer, expressed hope the meetings will lead "from further estrangement to gradual rapprochement and settlement of outstanding issues with the view to ensuring peaceful co-existence of all states."

The Soviet premier said Russia is convinced that "there is a necessary basis for arriving at mutually acceptable solutions and that nothing but joint efforts in this direction are needed."

"On our part we shall do everything necessary to conduce to the achievement of necessary agreement," he said. Khrushchev said the main problem—between East and West is the elimination of the last traces of the Second World War, "without which it is difficult to consolidate peace and security of the peoples."

He urged West Germany to improve its relations with East Germany and repeated a warning that Russia will conclude a separate peace treaty with the Communist state unless steps are taken to ensure friendlier ties between the two.

He said proposals that Germany should be reunited by the United States, Britain, France and Russia are unrealistic.

This, he said, would be tantamount to a call for the use of force against one of the two German states. Reunification should be worked out by the two states without outside pressure.

"The impression imposes that the federal government cares more for plans of the nuclear and missile arming of the Bundeswehr than for the reunification of the country," he went on.

The Russian leader called Adenauer's attention to the "dangerous consequences" of such a move for West Germany and the case of reunification.

"The use of thermonuclear weapons, in the event of war, would produce not merely a disaster but the destruction of all and everything on the territory of the Federal-West German Republic."

"If the Western Germans use all the economic potential and manpower resources of their country for creating the most powerful army in Western Europe," he wrote, "even then the strength of that army would not be equal to the power of our army and that of the armies of our allies."

"Even together with its allies the Federal Republic of Germany would not be able to equal our strength."

Khrushchev said Adenauer's policy, far from promoting German reunification, widened the gulf. He backed the all-German confederation suggested by East Germany, "but this of course is your internal problem."

Women Fling Gas Bomb In Little Rock Building

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Two well-dressed white women threw a tear gas bomb into the building where the Little Rock school board was meeting last night in first show of open violence since two public high schools were integrated. The women escaped. The gas caused board members, spectators and reporters to stagger from the building, choking.

Locating the New University

IT appears that the Victoria College council and the chamber of commerce committee on the subject, which have been studying separately but with liaison the expansion of the physical facilities of the college to suit its elevation to university status, have jointly agreed that if feasible the new buildings required should be erected on the Gordon Head campus site.

This is an important advance on the discussions which have been going on, and ensures that the public appeal which will be necessary will have unanimity of opinion behind it. A large body of public opinion regards Gordon Head as the best site for a local university, recognizing the opportunity this property offers to create the kind of institution of higher learning this area has long sought.

As to the feasibility of the move it should be within the compass of all concerned. It is not thought desirable to shift from Lansdowne to Gordon Head piecemeal over several years, although some other universities have developed that way, but to start afresh from the ground up. There is much in favor of this point of view, since it would give impetus to the reality of the college's new status and enable better planning for the large enrollments now creating difficulties for the college.

To begin with three new buildings would be necessary, to house arts and science faculties and provide a much needed library. Existing structures on the former Gordon Head camp grounds would be suitable for some time to come to cater for gymnasium, student council and cafeteria needs. The site itself requires only normal development for all campus activities, and is ideally situated in size and environment.

The main problem of course is financial, but much of this would disappear were this site finally settled on and the local public made aware that a full-fledged university awaited only its whole-hearted support. This would be forthcoming once it was established that Victoria's university was no longer something to be debated but actually in sight.

The cost of the Gordon Head shift is estimated to be around five million dollars. A public fund campaign would have an objective of $1,500,000, which would be matched by the provincial government. Added to this would be $300,000 from the Canada Council. This would leave something less than $2,000,000 to be found but an offsetting credit of approximately this amount should exist in the present buildings and land at Lansdowne, which probably could be put to instant and good use by the provincial government. As a location for the education department and local school boards, for instance, it would relieve the pressure on office space now at a premium at James Bay.

The alternative would be for the College to stay at Lansdowne and sink over $3,000,000 into what would be simply extensions to existing buildings on a site too cramped to take proper care of the future. This would be detrimental to the best interests of the college and would be to pay insufficient regard to the inevitable progress of a local university over the next two decades. To many people it might also seem like a waste of money.

There is every reason to believe the government would welcome a decision to move to Gordon Head and that it would do all in its power to help get the new university off to a good start. No more than others does the government wish to put money into buildings not erected in the most advantageous place. It is already on record as in effect favoring the major change warranted by the standards appropriate to the College's university role.

Only Partial Answer

AN official report compiled by experts on facts produced by an exhaustive and scientific study of the relationship of highway accidents to speed regulations tends to absolve the new 60-mph speed limit from blame for the shocking increase in traffic fatalities in recent months.

This is not an instance in which precise proof can be obtained one way or the other because there are factors present which extend beyond statistics. Nevertheless statistics taken over a long enough period are unlikely to mislead widely and may be accepted as a reasonably accurate basis of comparison; and there is little else than comparisons to go on.

The findings of the experts, however, leave one of the main questions unanswered. If raising the speed limit on selected sections of the highways was not responsible, what suddenly got into such a large proportion of British Columbia drivers to turn them into killers of themselves and others? The condition of the highways can be ruled out completely, because they were never in better shape. So also may weather, because the comparisons were made in a season when driving conditions are at their best. The increase in the car population may be one relevant factor but to a limited degree because the death rate is far out of proportion to the rise in number of cars licensed in the province.

Although the full report has not been published the investigation appears to have been confined to the influence of speed limits on the rate at which motorists drive rather than the influence of speed itself on the accident and fatality rates, which is a fine but important distinction. Something more may be learned from the findings of a separate inquiry launched by the attorney-general into that aspect of the traffic record. It is hoped so; otherwise one may have to assume that a great and increasing number of B.C. drivers have gone mad all of a sudden.

The situation which has developed to alarming proportions on the highways has caused a cleavage of opinion between two branches of government, the highways department and the motor licence branch, so that it is small wonder if laymen perturbed by it find themselves confused. It looks as if opinion is divided in the cabinet, too. Both Premier Bennett and Highways Minister Gagliardi hold the new limit blameless. Attorney-General Bonner, with the weighty responsibility of law enforcement, has expressed more cautious views, and the fact that he has set up an independent investigation suggests that he harbors some doubts as to the advisability of permitting 60 miles an hour.

Interpreting the News

Eisenhower's Job Overseas

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PULLING the Western alliance together may prove to be President Eisenhower's biggest job overseas.

His mission is far more critical than merely one of selling European allies on his ability to handle Premier Khrushchev in their talks opening Sept. 15.

Perhaps with this in mind, Eisenhower now is on his way through Bonn, London and Paris with proposals not only to restate Western solidarity in negotiations with the Russians but also to seek agreement on a common approach in dealing with what he considers the most vital problem of all—raising living standards in the impoverished countries.

To Prime Minister Macmillan, President de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer he will suggest that their governments join his in finding ways of equitably and effectively co-operating in aiding the almost 2,000,000,000 citizens of the underdeveloped countries.

Unless the civilized world—not just ourselves but the civilized world—is willing and ready to share in the burdens of making it possible for these people to achieve progress in this area, this world is going to have tough going, Eisenhower said before his departure. Eisenhower will have to visit three capitals to see the three government leaders. A greater display of Western unity might have been achieved by all the leaders gathering at the one conference table, but this is not to be.

Economic policies of Britain on the one hand and France and West Germany on the other now are so widely split that bickering instead of unity might be shown if all gathered at the one table.

But in his travels, Eisenhower might get them to pull together on an issue which is beyond the European front. The broader, more general issue of building up the underdeveloped countries to block Communist expansion and increase markets for European and North American goods.

Aside from the French-American differences on sharing of atomic secrets, markets are at the root of the European split.

More than a year ago Canada warned of the dangers ahead after Europe began negotiating towards a six-country continental common market.

Britain tried to get this enlarged into a 17-country industrial free trade area. This fell through and the common market emerged without Britain. Britain charged France and Germany were discriminating against her.

Eisenhower gained a great wartime reputation for ability to get strong-willed military leaders to co-operate. In peace he may strike a great new blow for freedom if he can break current European animosities.

"When is someone going to drum it into young Blake that selling the War Cry round the pubs does not constitute an offence under the Act?" Britain's new Street Offences Act, which went into force at midnight, Aug. 15, among other things gives the police wider powers to deal with women frequenting the streets and public places. Thinking Aloud

Letter from London

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I SUPPOSE a scientist is up against it. In wartime, at least, if he refuses to lend his brains towards the invention of some dreadful weapon of destruction he is apt to be deemed a traitor. When a nation's life is at stake it is a case of all hands to the plough and my country right or wrong. Some of them must surely work against their conscience, however, else they are equally apt to be thought rather a diabolical lot.

Of course things like bombs and their ilk grow just as cars and other devices have grown. The innovator doesn't know his brain-child is going to be taken over later and improved. And succeeding steps bring science into the realm of world politics and therefore of world power. When the atom was first split there was no thought this would lead to a hydrogen bomb.

Yet scientists cannot just shrug their shoulders and blame those who put their discoveries to militant use. They tell us now, for instance, that a new toxic substance is available or nearly so, eight ounces of which, properly distributed, could wipe humanity off the map. One hopes a faulty distribution system foils this cheerful piece of information.

One wonders also who initiated the research into this new Frankenstein nightmare. Did the scientists voluntarily advise their governments they had a new trump up their sleeves, or did governments instruct the scientists to get busy and discover something worse than the nuclear deterrent? It would be interesting to know. A deadly toxin isn't developed without somebody's say-so.

Drugs don't come cheaply, at least not when you have a prescription to fill, but the disquieting aspect reported of bacteriological weapons is that they are easy to produce and not too expensive. Nothing like a fleet of big fat aircraft carriers or a hydrogen bomb, for example. Supposedly this means that everyone can get into the act and that nations outside the nuclear club can obtain membership in the biological club. There might be no big two or three in future but big two or three dozen.

One takes this latest news calmly if only because no other course is possible. Man, the ordinary man I mean, would go off his rocker if he let scientific discoveries worry him, no matter how lethal. Anyway he is well-conditioned to horror. His education began early, with penny dreadfuls and scaring prophecies; his taste in this direction was improved by a diet of horrific things on the movie screens; now television has him gripping his chair every midnight as he watches the ultimate in ferocity that producers can dream up. Like the big lie which often enough repeated sinks into the most sceptical skull, horror becomes second nature to him.

This is just as well, for unlike the boomerang it has a saving grace, to employ an overworked phrase. Custom makes stale and man is not built to stay on a peak of feverish fear. That is why civil defence has a hard job rousing public interest. The scientists are over-frightening us, so that the total result might easily be a big yawn. If we took them too much to heart we would all drown ourselves or indulge in an orgy of eat, drink and be merry.

Happily we simply pursue the tenor of our ways and act normally. This is apathy, we are told, yet what is left but faith that the ghastly Pandora's box which has been fashioned in the 20th century will never be opened. But I wish the scientists could find some other employment nevertheless; they are a most unhelpful lot.

Frightening Power Given to Police

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

THE middle of August saw the introduction of probably the most controversial piece of legislation enacted in these islands for many years. At best it is a desperate attempt to provide a remedy for a desperate vice, at worst it is the negation of the most vital principle of British justice—the presumption of innocence.

At midnight on Aug. 15 the Street Offences Act became law. It provides that any girl loitering in a public street may be warned by a police constable and after two such warnings may be charged in a magistrate's court with being a common prostitute, with a penalty on conviction of a fine equivalent to $70 and/or three months' imprisonment. No longer will the police have to swear that a girl was soliciting or causing annoyance and in effect a girl will have to prove her innocence to escape conviction.

As lawyers have pointed out, a girl waiting for her boy friend could be warned by a zealous constable. Her name and address would be recorded and there is no legal redress—only penalties if she refused her name and address. If the boy friend was late again another night the same thing could happen. If he happened to be late on a third occasion the girl could find herself in a magistrate's court charged with being a common prostitute. It would then be up to her to prove that she was not a common prostitute.

How the law will work in practice remains to be seen. It seems obvious that at the start the police will concentrate on known ladies of easy virtue with an impressive list of convictions. The severe penalties provided will unquestionably drive London's most spectacular manifestation of vice underground.

It will clear the streets of parading women—indeed it did so in the first 24 hours. It removed from view a pestilence which has aroused the ire of thousands of visitors apart from residents—but also within 24 hours it created a new vice: a parade of men distributing cards containing names and telephone numbers. And under the act men cannot be charged with loitering. It has also created a problem new to London but not in some other parts of Europe—the woman at the front door of a house or tenement, and the woman at the window. There are also advertisement frames outside shops containing announcements of "models" and telephone numbers.

Criticism of the new law is acute. Much of course will depend upon how the police administer it, but the fear is that through over-zealousness or blackmail some innocent girl may be charged. The other criticism is that males have been excluded from the act at a time when male offences are increasing alarmingly, apart altogether from the male agents of prostitutes canvassing for customers.

Many lawyers regard the legislation as a panic measure. Something had to be done, but in doing it the door was left wide open for blackmail.

The Uneasy Years

Canada in an Era of Change

(From The Edmonton Journal)

THE process of change is a primary characteristic of both human and national life. By its very nature, it is a phenomenon of gradual, almost imperceptible steps. Yet within the span of a very few decades, it can be profound.

This is brought to mind by a recent study made in Canada by the Twentieth Century Fund, a U.S. non-profit research agency. The organization found, for example, that 71 per cent of Canadians have no first-hand memories of the First World War. In addition, 63 per cent have no personal recollections of the depression of the 1930s, and 51 per cent do not remember what conditions were like immediately before the Second World War.

This is the sort of change that not only has an incalculable effect upon our personal lives, but upon our national life as well. To take but one aspect of it, the depression of the 1930s is said to have created an overly-cautious "depression complex" once had, the agency's figures would indicate it no longer can be a major factor in our national character.

If most Canadians either have forgotten or never experienced the years before 1939, what do they rest their attitudes and ambitions upon? It must be the tense years of the Second World War, the uneasy years immediately following that, and the generally prosperous years of the 1950s. These have been the years when an atomic war has been a continuing threat, when inflation has eroded our currency, and when governments have embarked on wholesale welfare schemes.

It will be this new generation which will come to maturity and positions of leadership in the 1960s. Barring catastrophe, that decade, which begins this winter, will be one of staggering innovation and national growth. It also will be an era of even higher tax demands, and an era of greatly increased public expenditure on education and other public services. It will be an era which must devise at least a partial reconciliation between the needs of poorer nations around the world and the cost of inflationary expansion at home. It will be a decade that will require the confidence of the fifties, the discipline of the forties—and even the personal restraint of the thirties.

A Secret Weapon

(From the Toronto Telegram)

HERE'S a switch, a Canadian secret weapon that isn't going to cost the poor taxpayers a red cent. And it's all thanks to Pte. John A. Goodwill, who's as good as his name.

Goodwill is a Sioux Indian from Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask., stationed with the Canadian Army in Europe. He is also a rainmaker. When a Canadian artillery practice had to be called off in a heatwave because of the fire risk, Goodwill danced a dance and within half an hour the rains came to cool things down.

Said Goodwill: "I only did what my grandfather taught me."

Imagine all the time that is wasted through lack of rain. All the artillery practices the world over held up for just such a reason while furious gunners have to loiter and take it easy. Imagine the farmers who cannot work without rain, of crops ruined because of drought. Goodwill has the answer in his stamping feet.

for mistakes and for unscrupulous hounding by police officers. The responsibility placed upon magistrates is alarming—most particularly at this time when the police are under heavy fire and there have been numerous criminal convictions of police officers with the implied probability that they were not too scrupulous in the evidence they had given in some cases before their offences were discovered. Magistrates convicting on the uncorroborated evidence of policemen may have a hard battle with their conscience.

In the early stages of the act it may not be difficult. Convictions for soliciting cannot be gained. But what of the new generation of call girls created by the act? They will be girls without convictions. Most concern is felt that the innocent girl who is warned has no legal redress—no means of going to a court and having the warning expunged. There is only the presumption that such a girl has the right to approach the superintendent of police of the area in which she is warned and that if she convinces him that the warning was not justified that the warning would not be recorded.

It leaves the way wide open to bribery and corruption on the one hand, and the determination of a superintendent not to "let down" one of his men on the other. It is not a happy situation.

Like many other laws it will depend for its effectiveness on the way it is administered. It was obvious that parliament did not really like the legislation in the Commons or the Lords, but that it was passed because they liked less the hordes of street women who disgraced the west end of London. Obviously it placed a tremendous burden on magistrates, who will have to ensure that under unusual circumstances for British law—virtual proof of innocence—that there is no miscarriage of justice.

It puts a frightening power in the hands of the police. Only the courts can prevent it being abused.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IN the doctor's waiting room I was surprised to see the office door open and the doctor appear, assisting a very pallid gentleman and lowering him gently into a chair.

"There," said the doctor, "rest there for a little while, and go when you feel okay."

The poor man; he was pale and haggard. With lowered eyes, he took deep, deep breaths. I commiserated with him silently, wondering what tragic news the doctor had just given him with regard to the state of his health. After a little while, the unfortunate man seemed to get control of himself, his color returned to some extent, and without raising his eyes, he got up and very melancholy went out the door and away.

When my turn came to go inside, I asked the doctor what ailed the poor chap he had so solicitously led to a chair.

"Him? Oh, nothing. I just had to give him a needle for some vitamin shots, and he fainted, that's all."

"Men," said the doctor, "are terrified of needles. Ten of them faint for one woman who ever does. If women only knew how petrified a man is of a needle, they would never be afraid of molestation on the streets. All a girl has to do is wear some kind of ornamental pin with a good long point on it. And if she snatches it off her lapel and so much as points it at a great big thug, he'll run like a rabbit."

Mother Killed 'Bad' Daughter Because She Refused to Eat

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A weeping, 20-year-old mother of four children who is expecting her fifth, has told sheriff's deputies she killed her three-year-old daughter because the child wouldn't eat.

Mrs. Elvera Ellis, already on probation for beating the child, carried the little girl's body into the East Los Angeles sheriff's station. It was covered with bruises.

"I hit her with my hands and a shoe and kicked her,"

'I Hit Her ... Kicked Her ... Didn't Sleep so Good' sobbed Mrs. Ellis. "She had been bad for a week. Then Sunday she wouldn't eat."

Mrs. Ellis, booked on suspicion of murder, said she beat Gloria, her daughter by a previous marriage. Sunday night while her husband, Terry, 24, and the other children were at a drive-in movie.

"She seemed all right and watched television afterward,"

Mrs. Ellis said. But on Tuesday Gloria died.

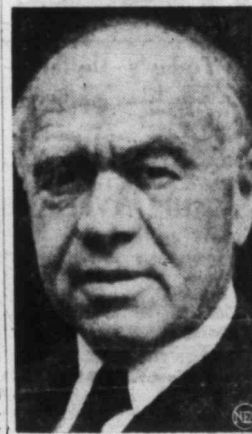

"We were scared to call the police," said the husband. "We thought we'd better wait and tell Sgt. Crane because we knew him."

Crane was the deputy who handled the case last year when Mrs. Ellis was convicted and placed on a year's probation for beating Gloria.

They learned Crane would not be at work until Wednesday, so they spent the long night at their home with the body of the dead child.

"We didn't sleep so good," said Ellis.

LORD BEAVERBROOK ... 'may be vindicated'

Talks Thaw Cold War, 'Beaver' Backs Eaton

PUGWASH, N.S. (UPI) — British publisher Lord Beaverbrook said yesterday he has never wavered in his belief that the difficulties between the West and Russia could be removed by close and resolute discussions.

The Canadian-born publisher cabled his remarks to the fifth "thinkers' conference" here sponsored by Canadian-born U.S. industrialist Cyrus Eaton. The current conference is dealing with the problem of biological and chemical warfare and is attended by 25 scientists from both sides of the Iron Curtain.

The cable was received by Eaton and referred to Eaton's statement of last September following his visit to Moscow that an exchange of visits between Premier Khrushchev and President Eisenhower would prove to be of immeasurable value in thawing the cold war. "Now it seems you may be vindicated in your long struggle," Beaverbrook told Eaton.

Earlier yesterday a British scientist, who was not identified, told the conference that induced plagues on a limited scale could theoretically be used as biological warfare agents.

He said that Q-fever — a disease which produces pneumonia-like symptoms — could be used as a tactical weapon or more effectively, as a weapon of sabotage.

He said that key government figures, in a small country, might be infected with Q-fever just prior to an uprising, thus rendering them incapable at the time of the rebellion.

'Unusual' Case Ends in Fine

Magistrate William Ostler yesterday found Mrs. Elsie K. Brown, 5417 West Saanich, guilty of careless driving following an accident which seriously injured a policeman's son.

Conviction followed trial which began two weeks ago, continued last week and was remanded to yesterday for sentence.

Mrs. Brown was fined $40 and her driver's licence was suspended pending a new driving test.

Evidence was that Mrs. Brown had driven out from Lasalle onto Reynolds at about 1:45 p.m. July 11, turning west. About 160 feet west of Lasalle something distracted her, and the car went out of control, continuing off the road for 320 feet and ending 92 feet away from the road itself.

At a point 66 feet from where the car left the road, and 10 feet north, the car struck five-year-old David Burdyny, son of city Const. John Burdyny, 1248 Reynolds. The boy suffered serious head injuries, from which he is still convalescing.

Reviewing the evidence, Magistrate Ostler noted that no brakes were applied until the car had gone some distance off the road and that mention was made of a brake fault.

"Brake failure," he said, "would not account for the car leaving the road."

He referred to testimony that Mrs. Brown had once suffered a blackout due to worry about a sick son.

It was a "most unusual case," he said, but added that in allowing the car to leave the road the driver did not display the proper care and attention.

Two youths were fined $15 each for being minors in possession of liquor, when they appeared in the same court. Victor Stanley Kingston, 19, and Rodney Raymond Wilhite, both of 1601 Esquimalt, were found with beer in their possession on West Saanich Road.

Suspended sentence was given J. E. Phillion, 708 Robelia, when he pleaded guilty through counsel to a charge of indecent exposure at Elk Lake. He was placed under bond of $250.

Also in Saanich court, David E. Strijack, 1601 Esquimalt, was convicted of consuming liquor in a public place, off the highway near Elk Lake, and fined $50.

In city police court, William Hurd, no fixed address, who had been arrested for intoxication, pleaded guilty to attempted suicide. Court was told he twice tried to hang himself in his jail cell. He was remanded to Tuesday for a probation report and sentence.

Dancers 'Brave' Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — A doctor hired by a theatrical booking company made a hurried flight to Toronto Wednesday to help convince Russia's touring festival dance troupe it's safe to play in Montreal despite a polio outbreak here.

Dr. A. B. Illievitz, acting for Canadian Concerts and Artists, and Amnassap Aroutunian, Soviet ambassador to Canada, apparently were successful in dispelling the 220 dancers' fears.

"Everything seemed in order when I left them," the doctor said.

The dancers are to perform here Friday night, Saturday and Sunday.

A spokesman for the booking agency said the troupe balked about coming here because "they saw pictures of the huge crowds lined up here for their anti-polio shots and most likely mistook them as being infected with the disease."

Motor Shares Top Activity At New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Motors, steel and aluminum shares led the stock market to its best advance of the week. Volume swelled to 2,550,000 shares.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 3.77 to 663.34. Studebaker-Packard was the most active stock, rising 3/4 to 9 1/2 on 84,500 shares.

Second was American Motors, up 1 1/2 at 47 on 38,200 shares. Third was General Motors, up 2 1/2 at 57 1/2 on 31,400 shares. Next came Ford, up 2 1/2 at 82.

Aluminum Ltd. bucked the trend of aluminum shares, down 1/2 point much of the day, closing 1/2 lower. Hudson Bay Mining gained a point among other Canadians. Also higher were Canadian Pacific, Dome Mines, International Nickel and Walker-Gooderham.

Prices were mainly higher on the American Stock Exchange where 910,000 shares changed hands. Canadian Marconi, Jupiter Oils and Seaboard Oil advanced.

Oils Improve
TORONTO (CP)—The stock market, paced by industrials, chalked up its best win in a week but trading was the slowest in more than a month.

Coupled with the slow trading was the fact many moves were on a few sales and in small fractions.

Among industrials three of the five most active gained, one lost. Refining oils, liquors and papers had the best gains while most groups were mixed. Eddy Paper added 2 at 62 while General Motors was up 1 1/2 at 54 and Consolidated Paper gained 1 at 39 1/2.

Ontario Steel Products led losers, down 4 at 20. Ford A and Goodyear Tire were off 2.

The announcement that the Borden Energy Commission would be released Friday gave oils a boost. Home B was the leader, ahead 1/2 at 15. Calgary and Edmonton added 1/2 at 24 while Canadian Husky was up 1/2 at 14 1/2.

Senior base metals moved ahead after a slow start. Hudson Bay was the leader, ahead 1/2 at 53 1/2 while International Nickel added 1/2 at 96. Uranium was mixed.

Gold was generally quiet.

Jump by Texaco
MONTREAL (CP)—Irregularly stronger tendencies showed at the close. Trading was quiet. Most changes were fractional.

Banks increased slightly. Montreal made the biggest gain at 5 1/2, up 1/2.

Pipelines, base metals and steel showed minor and irregular movements.

Merchandising issues were firmer. Reimans leaped 3 1/2 to 42. Simpsons increased 1/2 to 36 and Zellars increased 1/2 to 36 1/2.

Texaco gained 2 1/2 at 67.

Mines Make Gains
VANCOUVER—Volume of trading picked up sharply and a number of gains were made, chiefly in mining stocks. Highland Bell at 160, Bralorne at 60.5, Giant Mascot at 24 cents, Torwest at 43 cents, Quatsino at 20 cents, and Cowichan at 65 cents were all higher.

Oils were dull and little changed.

Presto! Bank Rate Dives

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's recent statement that his government's policies are not responsible for high interest rates bounced back on him yesterday when the Bank of Canada rediscount rate plummeted almost a point from its peak of two weeks ago.

The drop from 6.41 per cent two weeks ago to 5.58 per cent coincided with the government's first attempt to loosen the supply of money—the very thing the prime minister said he could not do.

The down-trend in the rediscount rate started a week ago when Finance Minister Fleming rejected some bids for 91 treasury bills and reduced by some $30,000,000 the amount of his borrowings.

The finance minister announced he would cut his borrowings again this week to $95,000,000, instead of the normal $135,000,000 and presto!

Savings Higher - Loans Lower

OTTAWA (CP)—Savings on deposit in Canadian chartered banks totalled $7,208,000,000 at July 31 compared to $7,201,000,000 at June 30 and $6,697,000,000 at July 31, 1958, the chartered banks' statement for July showed today.

Call and short loans in Canadian funds at July 31 totalled $175,000,000 compared with $170,000,000 at June 30 and $209,000,000 at July 31, 1958.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (CP)—Stock market prices moved ahead. Industrials issues claimed most attention and made wide spread gains.

Steels, motors, breweries and engineering shares were in demand. British bank shares were firm but Canadian shares were mainly lower.

Other dollar issues reflected Wednesday's slight improvement on Wall Street.

Gold shares improved on selective demand. Coppers and oils were firm.

Diefenbaker's Words

Bounce Back on Him

As the government itself is responsible for about a third of all the borrowing in Canada, it must now be abundantly clear that it can influence the market to a degree that no other individual party can do—despite what Mr. Diefenbaker says.

It may be significant that the government's check on borrowings, to put the interest rates on a more realistic basis, comes just two or three weeks before Mr. Fleming is due to announce the terms of his new Canada Savings Bonds.

Some financial experts believe that the Bank of Canada's rate will drop to below the five per cent mark in that period, thus allowing a savings bond that would carry an interest rate of 5 per cent or less.

Meantime the drop to 5.58 in the rediscount rate should do something towards relieving the difficulties of the chartered banks, who themselves are tied in their lendings to a 6 per cent maximum.

TIMBER OMITTED

Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. is dropping the word "timber" from its title Sept. 1. With the largest stands of timber of any company on the North American continent, Weyerhaeuser states that 60 years ago it was exclusively in the timberland management business. Now it manufactures a wide range of forest products and the word "timber" in the title is not sufficiently comprehensive.

STILL TIME: There's still plenty of time left to get a tye salmon. In fact, it could be said that the tye season on Vancouver Island is just coming to its peak.

Figures obtained by keeping records of entries in the Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest show that the last 10 days of August and the first 10 days of September have produced more king-sized salmon than any other period.

In 1957, when 496 tye were entered in the contest, 270 were weighed in during August and 209 in September. Last year, when the total entry was 404, there were 172 entries for August, 207 for September. In each instance, the bulk of the entries were made in the latter part of August and the first two weeks of September.

On that basis, this looks as the best tye year for some time. Entries in that division are now approaching 300 fish with more than 250 entered this month.

That could mean that August is to be the best tye month this year but the indications are that there will be plenty of fishing for the big fellows next month.

The Alberni Canal is just coming to its peak at Port Alberni and, unless this is to be an unusually bad year, Nahmint Bay has yet to approach the kind of action it has been giving for the past several years. Reports that West Coast tye runs are later this year also indicate that some good fishing is still in store.

Campbell River tye fishing has usually passed its peak by September but the unusually large number of tye being caught recently in Brown's Bay, at the northern entrance to Seymour Narrows, may well indicate more fish on the way to the tye pool.

Comox Bay is having its finest tye season in years and fishing there could be good for another two weeks.

PATTERN VARIES: One of the questions most often asked about fishing is what lure works best for tye salmon. The answer has to be the lure the angler works best.

Big plugs and No. 7 and 8 spoons are the most widely-used lures but plugged herring can be deadly in waters suitable for mooching and so can trolling with herring or herring strip in a Rhys Davis Teaser. There certainly is no truth in the belief held by some that tye won't grab properly-presented bait.

Among the artificials, the pearl pink Lucky Louie plug and the No. 8 Wonder and Gibbs-Stewart spoons are the most commonly used and, as is bound to follow, get the most tye. But each tye area seems to have its own favorite.

At Port Alberni, for instance, the silver Alaskan plug and the No. 5 T-Spoon have a lot of believers. At Nahmint, where Gus Beurling usually sets the pattern, the No. 8 Wonder and the Lucky Louie get the biggest usage. At Campbell River, the Gibbs-Stewart spoon seems to have come to the fore and at Brown's Bay mooching is the popular method. Use the lure you use the best, the trick, as in all fishing, is to be in the right place at the right time and fishing at the right depth.

ABOUT NAHMINT: For the many asking about fishing in Nahmint Bay, accommodation and boats are available at Nahmint Lodge and transportation from Port Alberni can be arranged by air or by water-taxi. Full particulars may be had by telephoning the lodge—Nahmint 2G, via the Port Alberni exchange.

For anglers planning to bring their own boats, it's a 14-mile trip from Port Alberni. But it can be a rough trip, indeed, and it's usually wise to plan to make it early in the morning. Winds, and plural is more often right than not, usually come up before noon and the Alberni Canal then is not only a sloppy but a dangerous stretch of water for small craft. Returning, the same applies. Be ready to leave as soon as you have completed the morning fishing.

REELIN' IN: A new batch of spring salmon was reported in Cowichan Bay Thursday, one of the best fishing mornings of the year. . . Up-Island, fishing is on the slowish side at the moment in most areas but anglers have been doing quite well off Bates Beach and Little River with coho, which continue to be on the smallish side for this time of the year. . . biggest "outside" fish of the year in the Comox area was caught off Bates Beach Wednesday night by John Falk of Courtenay. It weighed 48½ pounds, was tricked by a Minnow-Teaser. . . Port Alberni fishing is good although anglers were blown off both Wednesday and Thursday mornings. Last night, Pete Gamble and A. Chisholm of Victoria boated three between 20 and 30 pounds and John Quist of Port Alberni put a 49½-pounder on the scales at the Port Boat-house. . . last Sunday, Bill Clayton weighed in 840 pounds of salmon in the King Fisherman Contest at the Port Boat-house. . . fishing was also reported good yesterday out from Clayton's Fishing Camp at Nanose. . . Mrs. Helena Bryn-Jones of Sidney, one of the distaff anglers who can hold up in any fishing company, broke her rod the other day while playing a salmon, learned a few hours later that she had won a glass rod in the King Fisherman Contest. . . Mrs. Wilma Wilson, of King Coho Resort at Little River, took time off the other day to do some fishing in Comox Bay. She boated 42½ and 27-pounders, gave full credit to Bill Defty, the inimitable guide who seldom misses. . . and "Slim" Anderson, the fishing plumber, has been having himself a lot of fun this year with regular raids on Deep Cove. His best, taken with only two ounces of weight, was a 20-pounder.

Coley Hall's Confident; Pan-Am Games Opened

Manager Coley Hall of Vancouver Canucks feels confident enough of his club's outlook for the coming Western Hockey League season that so far he has shown no more than a passing interest in four veteran players offered him by Victoria Cougars.

Hal Laycoe, manager-coach of Victoria, has offered to trade former New Westminster players Max McNab, Gord Fashoway, Ron Matthews and Hugh Barlow to the Canucks. Of the four, Chapman said, "Normally we'd be glad to have them. But these are not normal times. We know we'll be strong and will have a wide choice of talent."

Tired, Bitter and Downcast

Manager Bill Rigney and infielders Danny O'Connell and Daryl Spencer, tired, bitter and downcast, reflected the feelings of the San Francisco Giants yesterday as they headed for the dressing room after unexpectedly losing twice to last-place Philadelphia Phils. Only two days ago apparently headed for world series with five-game bulge on losing side, Giants now find their National League lead again threatened.—(AP Photofax.)

Phils Crush Giants By Sweeping Pair

Philadelphia Phillies, sporting a six-game losing streak and with nothing better to hope for this season except the possibility of avoiding a last-place finish, handed the San Francisco Giants a crushing blow yesterday.

Getting hitting and pitching as it was needed, the Phils threw the National League leaders twice, 7-2 and 2-1, on a day which the Giants had looked forward to as a chance to get in some needed rest.

San Francisco manager Bill Rigney lashed out at league president Warren Giles for Angels Dodgers to two games. In two days, the Dodgers have picked up three games on the losing side at a time when the Giants had a solid five-game bulge.

The Giants looked weary and bedraggled, and never recovered after the Phils broke a 1-1 tie in the first game with a five-run sixth inning, which was also featured by a rhabarb.

Philadelphia players streamed from the dugout and Harry Anderson had to be held back as he tried to get at Mike McCormick after being beamed by a pitch thrown by the big southpaw. Anderson was taken to hospital for X-rays but returned in time to suit up for the second game.

In the second game, the Giants called it a day offensively after Willie Mays hit his 22nd home run in the first inning to give them a 1-0 lead.

Milwaukee's third-place Braves missed a chance to gain when they continued to have trouble with St. Louis. Led by Joe Cunningham, who celebrated his 28th birthday with four hits, the Cardinals edged by 5-4. Cunningham's triple and a sacrifice fly by Ken Boyer played the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning.

In the only American League action, the leading Chicago White Sox boosted their lead to a game and a half by defeating Boston Red Sox, 5-1, with Barry Latman in full control.

Ted Williams ruined Latman's shutout with his 10th

Nanaimo Bowler In Upset

VANCOUVER (CP)—One of two remaining Nanaimo bowlers in the Pacific National Exhibition's fivepin bowling tournament pulled a late-night upset Thursday night.

Audy Baldwin hung onto a spot in the playoffs by beating favored Ernie Ray of Vancouver, 730-632. Baldwin came through with scores of 186, 296 and 248 for the victory.

The end of Thursday's play left 32 men and 16 women in the $5,000 tournament that winds up Sept. 7.

Big Green Machine Smothers Bombers With Strong Defence

WINNIPEG—Eyes of the Canadian football world are again, for the time being at least, turned towards Edmonton, whose Eskimos are indicating they could recapture the glory that was theirs when they ruled the roost for three successive years.

Led by a tough defensive line, the Eskimos left 18,966 Winnipeg fans with little to cheer about Wednesday night as they rolled impressively to a 16-1 triumph over the Blue Bombers.

It was the second straight defeat for the Grey Cup champions, who have lost twice at home since opening with victories against B.C. Lions at Vancouver and Calgary Stampeders. And it was the second straight win for the Eskimos, upset, 12-0, in their 1959 Western Interprovincial Football Union debut by the Lions.

Only statistic which told the true story last night was the score. Bombers held the Eskimos even in first downs, each having 16, outgained them slightly in the air (132-113) and on the ground (180-170), but never looked like winning.

Bombers just couldn't do anything with an Edmonton defence which has allowed only one point in the last two games, and 13 in the three games Eskimos have played. Led by linebacker Don Stevenson and Art Walker along the line and homebrews Steve Bendiak and Mike Lashuk in the defensive backfield, the Eskimos actually had no trouble with the Winnipeg attack.

When Jim Van Pelt couldn't get the Winnipeg attack started, the Bombers sent in Kenny Ploen at quarterback.

Between them, the two star signal-callers could complete only nine of 21 passes, made most of their gains in mid-field.

Jackie Parker directed the Edmonton attack in the first half as the Eskimos showed the ball control which won them three Grey Cups in a row.

He started one touchdown march on the Winnipeg 50-yard line. Johnny Bright, Jim Shipka and rookie-import Don Floyd carried within 11 yards, then Parker rolled out to pitch a touchdown pass to Floyd.

Parker converted, then scored the second Edmonton touchdown himself, climaxing a 63-yard march with a one-yard quarterback sneak. Rollie Miles, still a good one, started the drive with one of the many fine punt returns which featured his play.

Parker was shaken up early in the third quarter when he was hit on a pile-driving, sandwich tackle by Herb Gray and John Varone, two of the Bomber standouts. Parker left the game with a knee injury and Canadian Don Getty handled the quarterbacking the rest of the way.

Newcomer Don Coffey kicked a field goal for Edmonton's last points in the third quarter and the Eskimos lost their shutout when Bombers salvaged a point after Van Pelt's close-in, field-goal try was wide.

McNeill Has 'Flu

Bertoia Out For Season

Having lost 38-goal scorer Bert Bertoia for the season and with 40-goal rookie Jim McNeill a doubtful starter because of the 'flu, Victoria Shamrocks could hardly be in worse shape for tonight's Inter-City Lacrosse League playoff battle with New Westminster O'Keefes.

Coach Norm Baker's sudden injury and flu-ridden Shamrocks must win tonight's second game of the best-of-seven final or all but concede the series to the Canadian champion O'Keefes.

New Westminster won the opening game 12-7 in the Royal City two nights ago with an awesome first-half display.

Third game of the series is scheduled for New Westminster next Tuesday. O'Keefes are almost unbeatable at home and by winning tonight would be in an enviable position.

Baker received nothing but bad news yesterday. First he learned that Bertoia, driving force behind Victoria's attack all season, had suffered a badly sprained knee and torn ligaments in Monday's semi-final game against Vancouver.

Previously, Bertoia had been expected to miss only the first two games of the final but the injury was more serious than first expected.

McNeill is attempting to shake off a virus infection in his lung that made him miss Wednesday's game. A doctor's decision today will decide whether McNeill plays or not.

Best Weekend Ever For Salmon Fishing

Last weekend was undoubtedly the best of the year for anglers in south Vancouver Island waters.

Just how good salmon fishing was can be judged by entries made in the Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest. They are still pouring in and already last weekend's fishing has boosted the total by at least 2,000 entries.

Stiff breezes have kept anglers ashore in most areas during the past two days but the results obtained by those who have been getting out indicate there are still plenty of salmon about. Saanich Inlet was reported improved after a slow week and there was improved fishing, too, yesterday morning in Cowichan Bay.

Tudor House Ties 'C' Series By Edging Pat Bay Navy

Getting a steady pitching performance from Martin Holm, Tudor House rallied for four seventh-inning runs Thursday night at Heywood Park to edge Pat Bay Navy 6-4 and force a deciding game in the city-senior "C" softball final.

Holm spaced eight hits and struck out six in leading Tudor House to the win that tied the best-of-five series at two games each. Final game goes tonight at 6:30 at Heywood.

Tudor House entered the seventh inning of last night's game trailing 3-2. A walk to George Wagg, a single by pitcher Holm, a double by Charlie Arkinstall and a triple by cleanup hitter Andy McCleary put the Pubmen into a 6-3 lead.

All the runs came after losing pitcher Chuck Kennedy had retired two batters.

$10,000 in Gifts For Millionth Fan

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions, drawing more than 29,000 fans a game so far in their sixth season in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, next Monday night will mark their 1,000,000th fan milestone.

Nearly $10,000 worth of gifts will be given to the person drawn as the 1,000,000th paying customer entering Empire Stadium to watch the Lions in WIFU action since they joined the league in 1954. Paid attendance to the end of last season totalled 914,869, with the 208,796 who watched the eight home games of Lions in 1956 the largest one-year total.

In two games this season, Lions have drawn 58,387 and need 26,744 in next Monday night's game against Edmonton Eskimos to reach 1,000,000. Club officials say this number of tickets already has been sold.

The prize winner will be determined through a draw at half time, a number to be drawn from a barrel by the club's first president, Art Mercer.

New Cures Are Possible

When Doctors And Clergy Work Together

What can doctors do when a young mother loses her will to live... or when a businessman's conscience actually causes physical paralysis? In September Reader's Digest is the story of medicine's newest ally (a long condensation of a new book)... the dramatic account of truly remarkable cures when ministers work in the hospitals with doctors to mend both body and soul. No Labor Parade In Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—This port city won't celebrate Labor Day this year with a traditional parade.

"We don't see anything to celebrate," said a St. John's and District Labor Council spokesman. "Labor is nothing in Newfoundland, nothing to Premier Smallwood anyway."

Strange Woman Met Death Alone

COACHELLA, Calif.: (AP)—"Right now," said the highway patrolman, "we're just listing it as a traffic fatality." But there was more than

Police Dogs Can Protect The Innocent

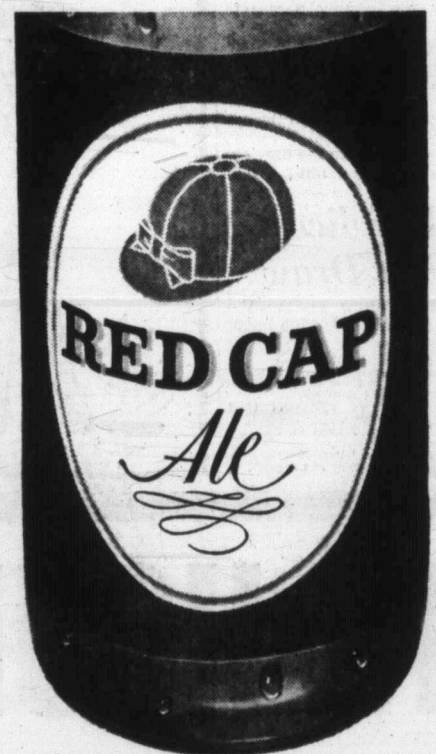

One answer to crime waves is to put man's best friend to work. Highly trained police dogs (used by the RCMP for 20 years) have an uncanny ability to separate criminals from law-abiding citizens. September Reader's Digest tells how London's police use dogs to find lost children, to make parks and dark streets safe for pedestrians. Here's a fascinating report on how every community can increase its police protection. Get your Reader's Digest today — 38 articles of lasting interest.

that to the strange death of Jean Elizabeth Wood, 26. She stood on Highway 99 Wednesday, miles from civilization, and stared death in the eyes. The eyes were the headlights of a huge truck bearing down on her.

She didn't budge. The truck driver didn't see her. He just felt a thud.

She was wearing a black party dress in the middle of nowhere. She had no car. The nearest house was miles away. Coachella, the closest town, was 20 miles north.

The operator of a Riverside, Calif., hotel, where the woman had lived since June, said: "She was very depressed. She worked as a waitress at one of the bars here at one time. She told me last night she hadn't worked for two or three weeks."

Argentine Salesman Wins Channel Swim

FOLKESTONE, England (Reuters) — Alfred Camarero, 28-year-old Argentinian TV salesman, battled nine-foot-high waves Thursday for an easy victory in the annual swimming race across the English Channel.

His time against 23 rivals was 11 hours, 48 minutes and 26 seconds—well over the record of 10 hours, 40 minutes set by Egypt's Hassam Abdel Rahim nine years ago for the 21 miles here from Cap Gris Nez, France.

Danish-born Greta Anderson, 31, over-all winner last year and in 1957, was first woman to finish—in 15 hours, 25 minutes.

Expensive Bylaw 'Bungled'

DUNCAN. An angry school board here last night accused the department of education with "bungling" in refusing to accept a $1,155,000 school bylaw for the district.

The board claims the department approved the original draft and then turned down the bylaw after it was passed.

The department gave as its reason, said trustee George Whittaker, that there had been insufficient detail given and that the interest rate on the money to be borrowed was "wrong."

The board hotly denied both charges.

"We did our best to persuade them that such technicalities could be overcome by the department, and failed," said Mr. Whittaker, spokesman for the board.

"We said we believed that it could be approved without another expensive bylaw going back to the electors, but they remained adamant and refused," he said.

"I would have suggested that if it were our fault we should resign, but it is not," he went on. "We have nothing to rebuke ourselves for."

Duncan Raps Education Officials

Mr. Whittaker said the board considers it "an unfortunate predicament" and added the draft bylaw stated "right from the beginning" the interest rate would be 5 per cent.

Board secretary Geoffrey Dyson said the board had not received any notice from the department that interest rates had been increased to 6 per cent.

Trustee Whittaker said the department approved the details accompanying the referendum in a letter dated May 7, two months before voting took place here.

The board indicated a new date will be set soon for the referendum to go before the voters again.

"It means we'll lose a whole year," said trustee Wilf Peck.

Author Wins Arts Award

OTTAWA (CP) — Author Adele Wiseman of Winnipeg, whose first novel, The Sacrifice, won her the Governor-General's Award for the best Canadian fiction in 1956, has been awarded a Canada Council arts scholarship.

Her grant was among 24 arts scholarships announced Thursday. The scholarships are worth an average of $2,000 each.

Helped Win Gold Stake

One of First in Rush

Lady Sourdough
Took Up Needle
Between Nuggets

Most women today don't find life as tough as did Victoria-born Mrs. Victoria Roberts, now of Los Angeles, who near the turn of the century spent a great deal of time on her knees panning for gold in Alaska.

Mrs. Roberts, her husband Jack and young daughter Mona, were among the first arrivals at Fairbanks, during the gold rush of 1904.

She is among the crowd of old-timers attending the International Sourdoughs Convention at the Empress Hotel. Her husband, a past-president of the group, was unable to attend because of ill health.

Rigorous existence in a frontier boom town didn't appear to leave any mark on the soft-spoken, quiet little woman chatting with lumbering old-timers who really looked like sourdoughs.

Her adventure started right here in Victoria 59 years ago, when the former Miss Victoria Penketh married a tailor from Parrsboro, Nova Scotia.

In 1902 the handsome young John E. Roberts went alone to Dawson City in the Yukon, where he opened a tailor shop. Two years later, Victoria took her child to Dawson, where they were living when news came of a strike in Fairbanks.

SOLD SHOP

They sold their shop and joined the rush. On a claim staked in the wilderness they panned the stream for seven or eight years before finding a "pay streak" that netted them enough money to live comfortably for a number of years to follow.

Times were hard until they made their strike, she said. "Every time we went broke, my husband would open up his tailor shop. He had an iron and a pair of scissors and that was all he needed to make some money for us to carry on."

"I couldn't sew well enough to satisfy him, so every night he would fire me, and he'd hire me again the next day," Mrs. Roberts recalled.

WALKED BACK

The family left Fairbanks twice to visit relatives. On both occasions they came down stream on a river boat but on the return trip had to walk 326 miles from the boat terminal at Valdez to their home.

"We once walked 340 miles through the snow from Kanchishna to Fairbanks," she said. They later moved to Anchorage and built the first two-storey building there. It became a community centre, and Jack Roberts became known as a promoter of baseball, boxing, bowling, wrestling and dog derbies.

Mrs. Roberts' prized possession is a solid gold necklace and locket which her husband had made for her from gold taken from their claim at Fairbanks.

Arena
Profit
$29,000

Victoria Memorial Arena produced a net profit of $28,904 for its latest fiscal year, according to financial statements released by the city yesterday.

Of this amount, $25,000 was paid to the city to help defray debt and principal payments totalling $65,262 for the year.

Public skating at the arena continued to be the highest single revenue producer, showing a return of $38,967.

Concessions returned a profit of $20,945 and skate shop operations $3,815. Special events and building rentals brought a gross return of $15,055 and the sport producing the highest return was professional hockey with $12,629.

Lacrosse brought in $8,914 and amateur hockey $4,667.

Detective's Return
Delayed by Storm

Bad weather delayed yesterday's arrival here of Det. Sgt. Joe Armstrong, who was to be flown by ambulance aircraft from Bozeman, Mont.

Mrs. Ruby Armstrong and their two children left Bozeman yesterday morning en route by train to Seattle.

Spreads
From Garbage

A crew of 90 civilian firefighters last night fought to confine a 26-acre Saanich forest fire just north of Prospect Lake which spread into heavy brush from a garbage dump early yesterday.

British Columbia Forest Service officials hoped to hold the blaze under control until daylight today when bulldozers were due to resume the work of widening a fire guard around the flames.

The fire late last night was a mile from nearest houses, moving slowly north and east.

WORK MOUNTAIN

Scene of the blaze was the foothills of Work Mountain, eight miles northwest of Victoria, where for a time yesterday flames slashed unchecked through tinder-dry underbrush.

Efforts to keep the blaze in check within a narrow fire guard, which bulldozers completed just as darkness set in, was hampered by lack of water in the vicinity.

ACCESS ROUTE

Langford forest service ranger Ron Jones said the initial guard thrown around the blaze was merely an "access" route and could not be expected to hold the flames in check if high winds came up.

Firefighters posted around the perimeter of the guard, which was gouged out of brush, timber and broken rock by five bulldozers, hoped to be able to prevent flames from jumping into adjacent stands of timber.

BROKE GUARD

The fire broke through one section of the fire guard around 6 p.m. yesterday but a sudden change in wind direction stopped it from spreading more than a few hundred feet.

Ranger Jones said that unless high winds hit the area the bulldozers should be able to widen the guard early today and thus prevent further spread.

MOP-UP NEAR

"We hope to have it in the mop-up stages by late in the afternoon," he said.

Saanich fire department sent officials to the scene yesterday afternoon following reports the blaze was spreading onto municipal property.

CARDBOARD BLOWN

But after assessing the situation they agreed to let the B.C. Forest Service carry on.

Smoldering pieces of cardboard from the garbage dump where the fire started were blown as far as two miles by winds yesterday afternoon.

SERIES FEARED

Saanich firemen were afraid the burning particles might start a series of bush fires in the area, but up to late last night none had been reported.

Forest officials say the fire broke out of the garbage dump around 9 or 10 a.m. yesterday.

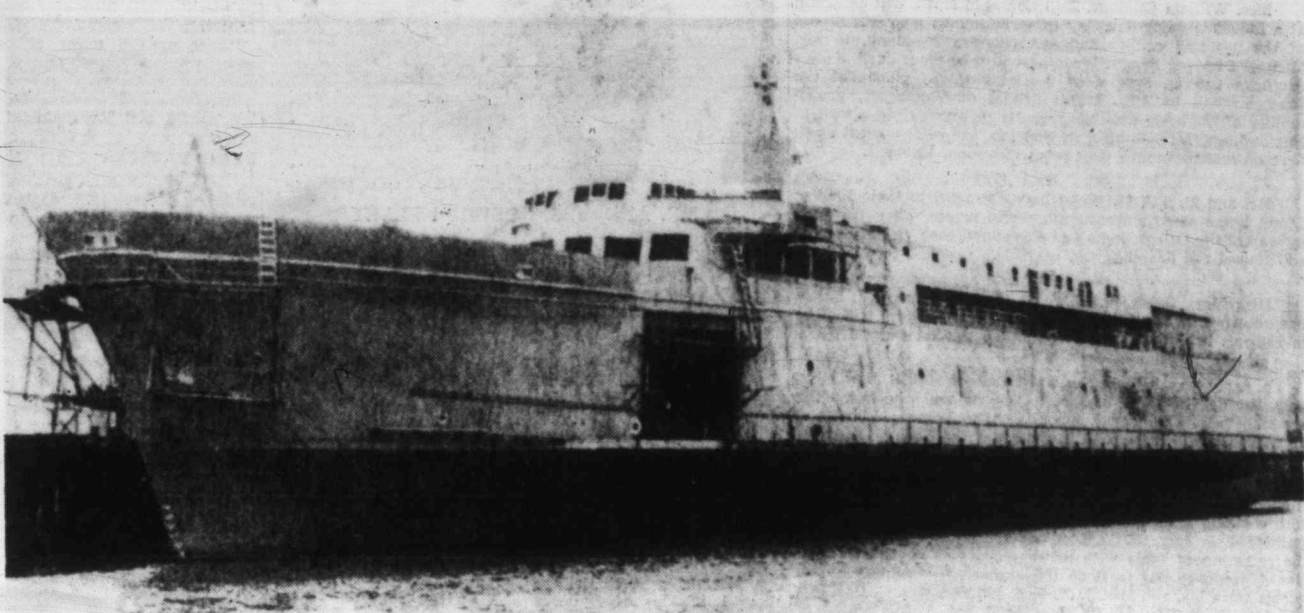

FIRST TO FIGHT

Employees and equipment of a city garbage contractor were first to fight the flames.

Forest service men took over the task of controlling the fire shortly after noon and by 5 p.m. some 40 men, a water tank-truck and five bulldozers were at work.

They are expected to arrive in Victoria about noon on the ferry from Seattle.

It was hoped last night that the Saanich policeman, injured in the recent earthquake in Yellowstone Park, will be flown here sometime today, said Saanich police chief W. A. Pearson.

New Victoria-Port Angeles Ferry Nears Completion

Nearing completion in Seattle is Black Ball Transport's new ferry, Coho, which is slated for the Victoria-Port Angeles run.

SIU Will Be Off the Coast
By Christmas, Says RivalMore Tourists Here
But Spending Less

Victoria's 1959 tourist season, with less than a month to run, has been roughly comparable with last year "and below expectations," tourist commissioner George I. Warren said yesterday.

"We have had more tourists but they have spent a lot less money than ever before," he said.

It was on early indications of more tourists that hope for a bumper year was based.

The commissioner blamed the premium Canadian dollar for part of the slump in tourist purchases and added that the U.S. steel strike had had an unstinting effect upon thousands of prospective tourist families.

He said the state of Oregon has undoubtedly sidetracked some of the purchasing power of tourists with its extensive campaign to sell itself as a place to shop because it has no sales tax.

Many tourists have objected to the five per cent discount of American funds in Canada and many more balk at B.C.'s five per cent sales tax, he said.

One of the reasons tourists have left less money behind here this year than in the past is that they are not staying long in one place, Mr. Warren went on.

This, he said, is a result of improved roads in British Columbia and a sudden tourist yen to see as many square miles of territory as possible in the shortest possible time.

91 Days Across Pacific

Warship Tow
Due in Japan

The Victoria tug Cambrian Salvor was scheduled to arrive off Yokohama at midnight Thursday, Pacific Daylight Time, after completing a 10,000-mile tow with a Chilean battleship in 91 days.

Island Tug and Barge Ltd. officials said last night that the powerful tug, skippered by Dutch Captain James van Komodo, was to take a pilot aboard in the late afternoon of Aug. 28, Japan time, which is about 18 hours ahead.

Harold Elworthy, president of Island Tug and Barge, flew to Japan to be on hand for the welcome. He left Vancouver by C.F.A. Wednesday night accompanied by his wife.

The tug delivered the 30,000-ton battleship Almirante Latorre three days ahead of schedule despite a brush with Hurricane Dot which forced it to heave to for more than 24 hours. The battleship will be scrapped.

JOHN DYS

John Dys tending to needs of a thirsty customer. (He is a partner of Terry Closser in a Goldstream drive-in and lives conveniently across the highway from the premises. Still single, his hobbies are swimming and skiing) ... Mrs. Mary Toffy selling some pink wallpaper ... young Lynn Wells baby-sitting with someone even younger ... Mrs. Ken Foster having dinner in HMCS New Glasgow ... Mrs.

The Seafarers International Union will be "off the West Coast by Christmas," a rival union spokesman said last night.

The prophecy was made as argument flared up yesterday between the two unions seeking to represent personnel of Island Tug and Barge Ltd. in Victoria.

In Vancouver the rival union—the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers—challenged the SIU, recently expelled from the Canadian Labor Congress, to an open vote on all B.C. shipping lines. It said if it lost it should withdraw from the coast.

Vern Calkins, B.C. representative for the brotherhood, said last night that his union has applied for certification of Island Tug and Barge and 15 other coast shipping firms—and in every case we've got a good majority vote.

"The men want us because they know there is no democracy in the SIU," he said.

But Rod Heinekey, Vancouver port agent for the SIU, said his union was "in Victoria to stay and there is no hope of a changeover."

He charged the brotherhood with intimidation of SIU members to get them to sign up as members of the brotherhood and claimed "now they are flocking back to the SIU."

"Ridiculous," retorted Mr. Calkins. "We have evidence to prove that only one out of 400 who signed with us has revoked his signature."

"The men very definitely are coming over to our organization and no intimidation is being used to get them. It's all happening so fast that if the pace continues the SIU will be forced to leave the West Coast by Christmas in search of some place where their unsavory record isn't known."

G. A. Vantreight

Saanich Pioneer,
Bulb Expert Dies

Well-known city fruit and bulb grower, and pioneer resident of the Gordon Head area, Geoffrey Arthur Vantreight, 79, died yesterday in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

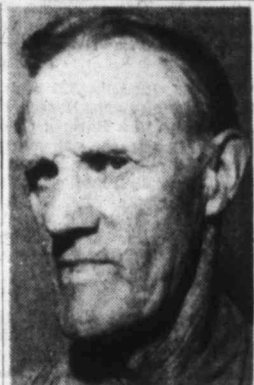

Born in 1880 in Dublin, Ireland, he came to the Gordon Head district with his family in 1884.

As a young man at the turn of the century he was active in sports and community affairs, and was a charter member and eventually trustee of the Gordon Head Community Hall Association formed in the early 1900s.

He was a member of the first Saanich school board around 1909, and of Saanich council for 11 years following the First World War.

He was also one of the first car-owners in Victoria, his first vehicle being a 1910 Cadillac.

But it was as a farmer he was known and respected. For many years he was known as the "strawberry king" of the area, and when the Dominion Experimental Farm moved to Victoria, it first set up shop on the "bottom seven" acres of his farm.

GEOFFREY VANTREIGHT
... 'strawberry king'

He was a member of Vancouver-Quadra Lodge No. 2 and Mount Newton Lodge No. 89, AF & AM.

He is survived by his wife Hilda Mary at the residence, 4423 Tyndall; two sons, Geoffrey, Jr., and Gordon of Victoria; two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Stevens of St. Catharines, Ont., and Mrs. G. H. Lokar of New Orleans; two brothers, Sydney and Edgar of Victoria; three sisters, Miss Elsie Vantreight, Mrs. Evelyn McConnell and Mrs. W. H. Lester of Victoria; 12 grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be announced later by McCall Brothers.

Police Promotions
Transfers Passed

Promotions and transfers involving six members of the Victoria police force were approved by police commission yesterday as a result of two vacancies caused by retirements.

Acting Sgt. Lester "Nobby" Clark moves from uniform to detective branch to specialize in fingerprint and identification work. He replaces Det. Dave Donaldson, who retired at the end of July.

Acting Det. Robert Mair was promoted from plainclothes work to sergeant in the uniform branch, succeeding Sgt. Alex Nichol, who retired this week.

Cpl. Joseph Barlow and Consts. Walter Calwell, Donald Buie and James Baxter will each be offered six-month trial periods as acting detectives before a permanent successor is selected.

City police moved a step nearer acquisition of two walkie-talkie radios, regarded as essential equipment for many phases of police work, at yesterday's commission meeting.

Request for quotations on the price of the radios was authorized, funds for the purchase being already in police accounts.

CFAX Goes
On the Air
Tuesday

Featuring "good music" with a notable lack of "heavy brass, wailing saxophones and rock 'n' roll," Victoria's newest radio station, CFAX, will begin broadcasting 6.30 a.m. Tuesday.

Broadcast period will be from 6.30 a.m. to 7.30 p.m. daily. Highlights include organ music with Reginald Stone, international music programs and an hour of symphony music with Victoria Symphony conductor Hans Gruber in charge.

The station will broadcast at 1,000 watts at 810 on the dial. The Daily Colonist will carry a complete schedule of station programs starting Tuesday.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. William Gilmour, 2540 Cotswold Road, will entertain at a luncheon party Tuesday for bridesmaids who will attend at the wedding of her daughter, Sandra Elizabeth, to Mr. Michael Drewrey Bazett. Wedding will take place in St. John's Anglican Church Sept. 4 at 8 p.m. Honored guests at the luncheon will be Mrs. Mabel Schaaf of Vancouver, grandmother of the bride who has recently returned from a visit to England, and Mrs. G. Morgan Fletcher, the bride's great aunt, here on a three-month visit from Clevedon, England.

Commander J. R. Doull, accompanied by Mrs. Doull and daughters, Susan and Stephanie, are spending a month at Vesuvius Bay visiting Commander Doull's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Flewin.

Brigadier and Mrs. Gilbert Streeten of Somerset, England, are visiting Vesuvius Bay, Salt Spring Island, guests at home of the former's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Robinson, whom they have not seen for forty years.

Miss Edna Rossiter, matron of Shaughnessy Military Hospital, returned to Vancouver Sunday after spending some days at Vesuvius Bay, the guest of Mrs. L. C. Parham.

Mrs. I. B. Devine and her daughter, Miss Clare Devine, entertained Sunday in honor of Miss Elay Price, who will leave shortly to visit England.

Ex-City Girl Wins Role In 'Showboat'

A talented nine-year-old former Victoria girl is currently playing in the Canadian summer theatre production of Jerome Kern's "Showboat" in Port Credit, Ont.

Katherine Bruce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bruce, residents here until last summer, was spotted during a six-week dance course with the National Ballet Company in Toronto and given the part of Kim in the musical comedy. Katherine, now a resident of Picton, Ont., is a former pupil at Quadra Elementary School and Florence Clough's dance studio.

City Girl Weds in Yukon

Honeymooning in Spain Then 'Home' to France

Married recently in Whitehorse, Yukon, were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelley.

Mrs. Kelly, the former Vanetta Tait, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Tait of Quimper Street, Victoria, is a graduate registered technician from the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The groom is originally from Manitoba but is now stationed with the RCAF in Metz, France.

Mrs. Kelly will arrive from the Yukon Sept. 14 to stay at week with her parents before leaving for Montreal where she will sail on the Saxonia to join her husband in Metz. They plan a belated honeymoon in Spain on her arrival.

Adams-Richardson

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. F. C. Adams, Miss Noel Constance Richardson was a charming Saturday bride in Sidney's St. Elizabeth Catholic Church.

Her groom is John Ronald Cameron of Vancouver, son of Mrs. Viola Cameron of Haney and the late Mr. Les Cameron.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy E. Richardson, West Saanich Road, and the late E. R. G. Richardson. For the ceremony performed by Father P. Hanley, the bride chose a formal gown of white silk crystal charm over hooped taffeta on the princess line with short pleated sleeves and an embroidered train.

Her short veil was held with a pearl tiara and she wore a

Peaches, pears and plums, they're plump and plentiful right now and what scrumptious spreads they make.

There are so many occasions when a pot of jam or jelly comes to your rescue with cheese and crackers for TV snacks and for midnight raids.

FRUIT BUTTERS

Use fruits such as peaches, plums, crabapples, apples, pears or quince and even tomatoes for delicious butters. Use them alone or in combination.

ation; pears, peaches, apple and plum make a good combination; peaches, plums and grapes another; apple, quince and cranberry, but make up your own mixture and come up with a surprise flavor for good eating.

The fruits should be firm and ripe—but not overripe; wash and remove any undesirable parts and cut up or halve such fruits as apples, pears, peaches and quince. Add water to barely cover fruit.

SOFT TO SIEVE

If the fruits you use have little pectin use scarcely any water—only enough to start them cooking or crush the fruit for juice. Bring to boil and boil until soft enough to sieve.

If pulp is thin, cook down for about 10 minutes before measuring then add sugar using ½ cup sugar for each cup of pulp.

Cook the mixture rapidly, stirring constantly as it burns easily. When mixture sheets from edge of spoon it is done. Begin the test shortly after the mixture starts to boil. When done seal in small sterilized jars or jelly glasses.

If you wish a spiced butter, set part of the pulp aside and to it add a combination of cinnamon, cloves and allspice or the spice you like best. Cloves are especially good in peach butter or apple butter. Add and taste until you get the flavor desired.

PEACH CONSERVE

Blanch and peel 6 pounds peaches (figure on at least 4 peaches to the pound). Chop the peaches and put in kettle with the juice from 1 small bottle of maraschino cherries and 5 pounds sugar. Slowly bring to boil, stirring until juice runs freely, then cook gently, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking.

Cook about ½ hour and then add the grated rind and juice of 2 lemons and continue cooking until thick as desired. About 5 minutes before end of cooking time add the maraschino cherries and 1 cup slivered blanched almonds. Seal while hot.

A few peach stones cracked and tied in a bag may be added to the mixture for extra flavor. Some like to add oranges rather than lemon but we think the lemon provides the best flavor. Apricots may be done in the same way.

APPLE BUTTER

Choose apples tart, juicy and crisp. You will need 10 pounds. Pare, core and slice. Measure and add an equal amount of apple cider. Cook over low heat watching and stirring as it burns easily. When apples are tender press through sieve. Add ½ cup sugar for each cup pulp. Add 2 tsp. or more of allspice, 1 tsp. each nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon. Cook

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

DEAR ANN: Something happened which dates back to your column on ironing bed sheets. Now I have a problem.

My husband wrote me a note this morning. It said, "Unless you are sick, dying or dead, I expect my shorts to be ironed and in my bureau drawer when I come home. Love, Lou."

I've never ironed Lou's shorts in the 12 years we've been married and he never complained—until now. I decided I wasn't going to spoil him at this late date so I did not iron his shorts. I cleaned out his closet instead.

Tonight when he came home he kissed me affectionately and headed right for the bedroom to check on the shorts. They were in his bureau drawer, folded neatly but not ironed.

He said nothing but I could see he was disappointed. You've put me in a bad spot. Ann. Please give me your frank opinion. Should a wife who has never ironed her husband's shorts start after 12 years?—KATHLEEN.

Dear Kathleen: Well—here we go again! There are all kinds of husbands in this world. Some couldn't care less whether their shorts are ironed or not. Others complain if their handkerchiefs aren't lined up just so.

In my opinion it is not unreasonable for a man to want his shorts ironed. If your husband has decided after 12 years that he'd like ironed shorts—then iron 'em.

You'll burn up less energy ironing seven pairs of shorts a week than arguing about it. I promise Kathleen, if you begin to iron Lou's shorts he'll stand on his head to please you.

Go-Away-Closer Routine

DEAR ANN: A certain boy has made such a pest of himself that I need advice on how to shake him.

He phones almost every night and I can't shut him off. He comes over during supper when he knows I'll be home. When I see him through the window I hide in the closet and ask my folks to tell him I just left. He has bought me some expensive presents (the last one was a wrist watch). It's embarrassing.

How can I get it through his head once and for all that I'm not interested and I wish he'd leave me alone?—DL.

Dear DL: You can't shake this guy because you've been giving him the "Go-away-closer" routine. You enjoy having him run after you.

Your family should not participate in this cheap conspiracy. If they really want to be helpful they should help wrap and return the gifts and assist you in composing a couple of farewell sentences.

DEAR ANN: Please tell just John to beg his wife to join A.A. before it's too late.

Illegitimate Children 'Left Behind' in U.K.

LONDON (Reuters) — Unmarried mothers from foreign countries who leave their children in Britain when they return home were criticized in a report published Monday night.

The National Council for the Unmarried Mother and her Child said in its annual report that last year it came to the aid of 247 foreign unmarried mothers—nearly half of them from Germany and Italy.

Some of these women came to Britain knowing they were pregnant, or became pregnant soon after arriving. It was "unfair" that the child could be left behind when the mother returned to her own country, the report said.

The council also expresses concern at an increase among illegitimate pregnancies among teenage girls in parts of Britain.

The report noted an increase in the number of married women estranged from their husbands who expect illegitimate children and are faced with the "tragic" problem of hiding their pregnancy from their children and neighbors.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

A TEEN AND HER MAKE UP

UP. A mother asks: What cosmetics would you advise for my teen daughter, just starting to use make-up?

For all beginners, this answer: Your needs are a protective powder base, powder, lipstick, lipstick brush, eyebrow brush, cosmetic cleanser and cotton balls.

Your base must be formulated to suit your skin type—oily, blemished or clear. It may be colorless or tinted, cream or liquid. If you decide on a tinted base, be sure it complements your skin coloring.

Exactly match your powder to your skin tone, unless it is very pale. Then a powder should be laced with pink. In lipstick, pale pink shades flatter fair skin; pale coral shades, dark skin.

While cosmetic brushes sound stagey for teen use, it is not so. A truly neat, natural lipline cannot be achieved without a brush. Once make-up is applied, the eyebrows must be freed of powder and groomed via a brush.

As cleanliness keys a trouble-free skin, make-up must be twice removed—first with cleanser and then with soap.

MAKE-UP MAKE BELIEVE

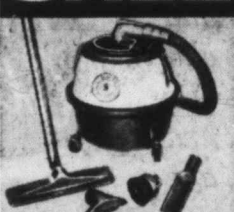

Facial flaws both large and small can be repaired by make-up. How to give the illusion of perfection to imperfect features is detailed in my leaflet, "Make-Up Make-Believe." To obtain a copy, write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and five cents in coin.

Tight Family Schedule Sparks Nurses' Revolt

TAKADA, Japan (UPI) — Nurses at the Takada National Hospital have won unrestricted maternity rights.

Hospital authorities revoked a rule put into force in 1956 which had limited the entire nursing staff to four maternity leaves a year, so arranged that only one nurse would be on leave at any one time.

Since 12 of the staff were married, the rule in effect limited them to one child every three years. A committee of nurses was set up to space out the pregnancies to avoid infringement of the hospital rule.

But the situation became tense as the staff increased and single nurses married. There now were 23 married nurses, limited to one child every six years under the regulation.

The issue came to a crisis after one nurse, already the mother of one child, said she wanted another immediately without waiting for her turn. The nurses' committee vetoed her request. The situation was brought to the attention of the medical workers' union.

The union denounced the rule as a "violation of basic rights" and launched a campaign to force its revocation. Hospital authorities surrendered yesterday.

"You can have children whenever you want," Dr. Tokichi Sakata, director of the hospital, informed the nurses.

Says Cary Grant

Bleaching Means She's Insecure

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bleaching indicates a woman is reaching for inner security, says movie star Cary Grant.

"In changing her hair color, a woman is trying to hide herself," he said in an interview. "She must be discontent with herself or she would not be trying to alter. I doubt if it occurs to her that she is flaunting her insecurity."

"Or look at the woman who wears too much perfume... smokes with a cigaret holder. These are more of the signs. The more she resorts to artifice, the further she pushes herself along the road to complexes."

"Have you ever noticed this about women... how few of them can sit still?" Grant asked. "Sitting still takes some doing... a lot of poise."

"Insecurity is a spreading thing—from parents to children."

Skipper Solves Dilemma

MONTREAL (CP)—Aboard ocean liners it is customary for the captain to invite prominent passengers to dine at his table.

But what would you do if your passengers included a Conservative cabinet minister and a former Liberal cabinet minister, both welcomed aboard by the president of your company?

That is the problem that faced Captain John Soame of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada. His passengers included Transport Minister Hees and former Liberal Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier. Both were welcomed aboard by N. R. Crump, CPR president.

Captain Soame decided that Mr. Hees as the cabinet minister rated the first invitation and asked him to dine at the captain's table during the voyage to Britain.

"Do you have any friends you would care to invite?" asked Captain Soame.

"I understand the Chevrier's are travelling," said Mr. Hees. "How about asking them?"

"An excellent idea," beamed Captain Soame.

"The Chevrier's are old friends," added Mr. Hees.

Danger Double-Barreled for Subs

Unfriendly submarines beware of Pacific Maritime Command. Deputy commander Group Captain J. H. Roberts, RCAF, keeps his eyes on HMCS St. Laurent during exercises

Sea, Air Forces Weld To Meet Sub Threat

New Joint Command Unveiled to Public

Canada's newest defence arm—the RCN-RCAF Pacific Maritime Command—was unveiled to the public for the first time yesterday.

Ashore in the operations room at HMC Dockyard, the integrated staff under Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner plotted the position of an "enemy" submarine off the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Aboard HMCS St. Laurent, in the nerve-centre of the modern anti-submarine destroyer escort, officers pored over charts as the "enemy" was stalked with radar and sonar detection gear and finally "killed."

NEPTUNE OVERHEAD

Overhead roared the Neptune tracking aircraft of 407 Maritime Squadron based at Comox.

The whole operation, which would have spanned more than 36 hours under actual conditions, was run through in little more than one hour for benefit of reporters. They travelled by bus from the operations room to "A" jetty where St. Laurent remained tied up during the entire simulated attack.

Later, reporters were taken to Patricia Bay airport to inspect the twin-engine maritime patrol aircraft and watch a demonstration of a take-off assisted by two powerful jet engines.

LONG-PLANNED

Admiral Rayner told a press briefing creation of the new command was "sparked by the submarine menace." He said the merger of the two service arms for anti-submarine warfare has been planned for some time. Atlantic Maritime Command has been operating on this basis since 1956.

Danger of sneak attack is increased by submarines capable of launching missiles far out to sea at targets some 1,200 miles away. It is also vital to keep sea lanes open to merchant shipping which carries more than 50 per cent of Canada's export trade.

To meet this double threat, surface and air forces on this coast have been gradually increased over the past two years.

SENIOR OFFICERS

Four senior officers, each with broad experience in maritime and coastal command operations, have taken up new appointments on Admiral Rayner's staff of anti-submarine specialists.

Results of this new unified operational control of sea and air forces in recent exercises proved "most satisfactory," the admiral said.

Admiral Rayner said: "Captains of fighting ships and aircraft taking part in the exercise all agreed that it was an improvement over previous exercises."

SAME AS NORAD

Group Captain J. H. Robert, RCAF, deputy maritime commander, said the new command was modelled on those operated so successfully on the international level such as SHAPE and NORAD.

28 Still Lost After Quake

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP)—Twenty-eight persons are unreported and possibly missing in the wake of last week's earthquake, according to latest Red Cross figures.

Britain's New 'Flying Pyramid' May Return Men from Space

LONDON (Reuters)—British scientists Thursday unveiled designs for a two-man "flying pyramid" that could be brought back from outer space and a ramjet engine capable of speeds of more than 3,000 miles an hour in the upper atmosphere.

Designs were announced at a Commonwealth space flight symposium, to be followed next week by a six-day International Astronautics Federation conference for scientists from all over the world.

The flying pyramid was designed by scientists at Armstrong Whitworth Aircraft Ltd., who believe they have solved the problem of the heat generated when an object re-enters the atmosphere from outer space.

This heat normally would turn any space craft and its occupants to a fiery meteorite.

The pyramid is designed to re-enter the atmosphere nose-up at 18,000 miles an hour after a 6½-hour trip 700 miles out in space. It would be protected by its delta-shaped base which would deflect the heat generated into the surrounding air.

If the pyramid's trip went according to plan, it would land at 80 miles an hour 35 minutes after re-entering the atmosphere.

Personal Issues 'No Business' Of Census Men

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—As far as former member of parliament Ann Shipley is concerned, questions to housewives such as "how many stillbirths have you had?" are no concern of government census takers.

Mrs. Shipley led protests at a meeting of Kirkland Lake district Chamber of Commerce Wednesday against "personal questions" to be asked in the 1961 Dominion census.

INCOME ISSUE

Questions like "what is your total income?" and "how many children have you had?" are "nobody's business but my own," the former Liberal member for Timiskaming declared. Admittedly the census is supposed to be confidential, she added, but "how can it be confidential when it will be taken by friends and neighbors?"

ALREADY THERE

"If income figures are important, the department of national revenue has them already. And if they want birth statistics they can get them from the provincial governments."

The Kirkland chamber decided to seek support for their protest at the annual meeting in Timmins on Sept. 12-13 of the Northeastern Ontario Chambers of Commerce.

"I don't intend to answer a lot of these questions," Mrs. Shipley stated flatly. "Are we going to submit to a census taken on our fertility ability and other personal matters?"

'Nature Boy' Lived High Life in Woods

FRANKLIN, N.H. (UPI)—A posse of police and bloodhounds Thursday stalked a handsome 23-year-old "nature boy" accused of stealing to live in style in the woods.

The searchers trekked through rugged forests near a flood control dam in search of Frank Gibbs, who is wanted on burglary charges in three states.

Franklin police chief John Picor said two of Gibbs' elaborately furnished campsites were found Wednesday. He had been living in the woods about three months.

Gibbs' sylvan homes were equipped with stolen items, including a generator taken from the dam's repair shop.

At one camp site, Gibbs had dug a 12-foot well from which an 18-foot pipe provided fresh running water. The well was dug with a stolen hole digger.

Picor said more than 150 articles ranging from a tent and a two-burner stove to canned food and small toilet articles were recovered at the two camping spots. Their value was about $1,000.

Picor said he was checking out a report that Gibbs once was a mental patient.

Gibbs, an air force veteran, "must have had a survival course," he added.

Gibbs stole tents, sleeping bags, garden tools, dishes, food and fishing equipment and robbed gardens for fresh vegetables. He also stole books from a nearby camp but returned them.

Drug Suspects
To Stand Trial

MONTREAL (UPI) — Two suspects, allegedly involved in one of the largest drug seizures in North American history, were ordered Thursday to stand trial by jury at the next assizes.

Premier Duplessis, in his role as attorney-general, issued a preferred indictment order depriving Giuseppe Cotroni, 45, and Rene Robert, 34, of their option to choose to be tried by a judge alone.

Cotroni, a restaurant associate, and Robert, a waiter, face charges of being in possession of $8,000,000 worth of heroin for trafficking purposes.

Their arrests earlier this year climaxed one of the most intensive investigations ever conducted on an international scale by RCMP and U.S. federal agents.

"DEEP IN MY HEART"

The "top" in musicals, and in glorious color, too. Big band music, songs by Helen Traubel and Jose Ferrer. The greatest array of musical talent in all pictures. Gene Kelly, Tamara Toumanova, Walter Pidgeon, Cyd Charisse, Howard Keel are just a few in this eye-dazzling, wondrous spectacle of love and romance. A family film, to be sure.

Gobel Cleans Up
At Toronto Fair

TORONTO (UPI) — Comedian George Gobel figures Canadians must be "pretty straight-laced." But he's going to clean up his show at the Canadian National Exhibition on orders from fair officials.

Gobel was criticized by several viewers and city council members for using a phrase some described as blasphemous and for a skit featuring examination of the physical attributes of leggy chorine Sandra O'Neill.

Mayor Nathan Phillips said some of Gobel's lines "didn't seem right for a family audience."

"Of course I will take out the lines if anyone thinks they are offensive," Gobel said. "People up here must be pretty straight-laced."

Satire, Nostalgia Blend Neatly
As Kaye Blows Up a Storm

"The Five Pennies" now at the Royal, one of the best of Hollywood's big-screen life- stories of show business celebrities, presents Danny Kaye in a musical biography of Loring (Red) Nichols, a small-town cornetist from Utah who became a famous jazz musician and bandleader in the 1920s and 30s.

Evidently Nichols blamed himself as a neglectful parent when his little daughter was crippled by polio, and for many years abandoned his career while looking after her.

Recently, however, he has successfully returned, and it is his horn—as blithe and striding as ever—which is heard throughout the soundtrack of "The Five Pennies" while the gifted Kaye does all the visible fingering and blowing.

DANNY KAYE
... blithe and striding

The film wallows rather heavily in hearts-and-flowers sentimentality in the polo and retirement phases. But it's a pleasant show on the whole, with more than the usual share of lively moments; and the liveliness contains a satisfying amount of satire underlying its genial nostalgia.

Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong appears as himself and has some bracing musical sessions with Kaye, including an exuberant performance of "When the Saints Go Marching In."

Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller and other prominent jazzmen who worked with Nichols are plausibly portrayed as minor characters in the story. Barbara Bel Geddes brings her own special brand of non-glamorous charm and honesty to the role of Nichols' wife.

Without striving for "documentary" or encyclopedic coverage of the roaring 20s and depression 30s, the film shrewdly lampoons some of show-business foibles of the period.

Under that heading there is a robust and wacky montage of long-ago commercial radio, with Kaye and colleagues appearing in cornball costumes as the Clquot Club Eskimos, as a group of fearful "gypsies" singing "Back Home in Indiana," as the Canada Dry Mounties, and as "Sam Weiskopf's Royal Islanders," a pineapple company's underpaid serenaders.

Happy Gang Near
End of the Road

TORONTO (UPI) — It may be the end of the road for The Happy Gang.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation announced Thursday that the radio show will be dropped from its regular spot for the first time in 22 years. Instead, the CBC will carry on with the Tommy Hunter Show, which began this year only as a summer replacement.

The corporation said the change was made because of "steadily growing audience and sponsor interest" in Hunter.

The announcement said The Happy Gang would be heard at another time, only "if sufficient sponsorship can be found."

Warm Weather Issue

Shirts-at-Work Strike
Hurting Entire Town

LADYSMITH, Wis. (UPI) —

The issue of whether a man has to wear a shirt to work on a hot day sparked a bitter paper mill strike Thursday.

People thought it was an interesting little hot weather news item eight days ago when some of the warm workers stripped to the waist and the Peavey paper mill ordered them to put their shirts back on. But then 195 of 220 hourly workers went on an unauthorized strike in protest.

AFFECTS EVERYONE

Now, the strike is affecting this entire community of 4,000. Bitterness has developed between the company and the union, both the mill and employees feel the pinch, merchants say it's hurting business and the pulp wood industry is affected.

The mill is continuing production of its toilet tissue, towels and napkin products but on a limited basis with about 25 workers on the job.

The company said there have been "numerous reports of employees being threatened with physical injuries, prop-

Queen Gives Gillies' Ball

BALMORAL, Scotland (AP) — The Queen threw a ball for her servants Thursday night—the traditional Gillies' Ball, a happy, fast-dancing highland fling started by Queen Victoria.

It was the Queen's first big party since the announcement that she is expecting a baby.

"The Queen's grand to go through with the ball," said Albert Thomson, the local postmaster, "but it's really harder on the Duke of Edinburgh."

Gillies' dances are vigorous affairs and leave their marks on the best of men.

"I know," said the postmaster, "my mother and father used to attend them."

Hosts were the royal family.

Guests were the servants of the Balmoral estate plus officers and men of the royal guard, the Royal Highland Fusiliers.

In Queen Victoria's days, the dance was held after an exceptional day of stag shooting. The slain stags were placed in a huge circle on the palace lawn and the Gillies—male attendants—and their girls alternated between drinking and dancing within the stag ring.

Thursday's affair was more sedate. It was held in the palace ballroom.

Jimmy Shand's band and local pipers furnished the music. Scottish reels and country dances were the order.

Dancing them as they should be danced takes a lot out of a man.

So the sympathy of Scots went out to Prince Philip—

Festival Loss
Hits $215,000
In Five Weeks

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver International Festival took a thumping $215,000 loss on its five-week series of artistic presentations this year, it was announced Thursday.

The loss amounted to almost 50 cents on every ticket dollar sold.

W. C. Mainwaring, president of the festival society, said the 1960 festival will have to be shorter, broader in appeal and cheaper to attend than the "artistically successful but financially disappointing" 1959 season.

Some $165,000 of this year's deficit has already been covered from money raised last winter in a fund campaign. Financial director Peter Bennett said the festival society "expects no difficulty in raising enough money to carry on next year."

But he said the third annual festival will likely be four weeks long or less, compared with five this year, the variety of events will be greater and there will be a complete re-amping of ticket prices for the Queen Elizabeth Theatre.

Total cost of the 1959 festival was close to $500,000, compared with about $400,000 the previous year, and ticket sales numbered 230,000 compared with 250,000 in 1958.

Mr. Bennett said the festival "has already got substantial commitments or guarantees from local individuals and corporations" to cover the $30,000 deficit left over this year and to launch next year's festival.

Said Mr. Mainwaring: "Returns fell far short of expectations for a number of reasons, including seat prices, a slowdown in spending because of strikes and a fall-off in tourism."

Paradise
Seeker
Sails On

LOCKPORT, N.S. (UPI) — The skipper of a Lockport fishing boat reported Thursday he had spoken to Andre Yavorsik, the 45-year-old Hungarian immigrant who is sailing the seas in a leaky boat in search of his personal paradise.

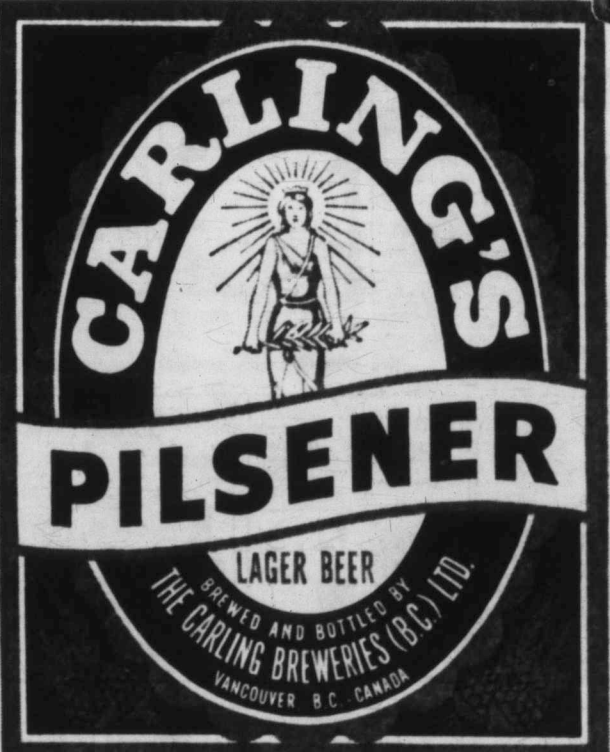

Fisherman Percy Richardson said he had come across the immigrant 80 miles south of here and added Yavorsik is confident he can reach France in two or three months.

He has only made 80 miles since leaving Halifax Aug. 14. Police said his boat is made of pieces of scrap material from a junk heap.

If and when police catch up with Yavorsik they are going to ask him to postpone his trip until he has a boat which is seaworthy.

TV TALK

Producer Robert (Omibus) Sadek is in Europe to arrange tapings of at least four concerts by Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic in Moscow, Venice and London.

The taped shows would be part of the Ford-sponsored series that will be a monthly TV feature next season.

Newest private-eye in the making is John Staccato, a concert pianist who doubles as a detective.

John Cassavetes stars as the hero who mixes Beethoven with burglars. After knocking over a sonata, he knuckles out uncouth heavies.

One catch, Cassavetes can't play the piano, and he's stone deaf.

The piano-playing sequences will be dubbed in. The music, it is hoped, will make Staccato different from any other situation dramas.

Bob Cummings has landed the host-empire role in the 90-minute NBC special, A Toast to Jerome Kern, airing on Sept. 22. Harry Belafonte, Louis Prima and Keely Smith are the show's headliners.

Red Agent in Edmonton?

EDMONTON (UPI)—Leaders of the Chinese community said Thursday they know nothing about a Communist woman agent reportedly sent from China to organize local Chinese youth.

Officials of the Chinese Benevolent Association and the Chinese Nationalist League said, however, that Communists had been trying to organize Chinese in Edmonton for seven or eight years, without much success.

Earlier Yin Shou Che, Nationalist Chinese consul-general in Vancouver, described Edmonton as the centre for Communist activities on the Prairies, and claimed the Red regime had sent a woman agent to organize youth in the city.

Chinese workers questioned by reporters said they knew nothing of either subject.

However, a well-known Chinese businessman who asked that his name be withheld, said the Communists used to attract youths into an organization, quartered in a basement in the east end of the city, by offering games and movies. But he added the Slowdown at Dusk?

Night Limit
For Speed Considered

Reliable sources indicated yesterday that British Columbia traffic officials will initiate a study of whether establishing different night and day speed limits on provincial highways is desirable.

"In view of the findings of the report (by the 60-mile-an-hour speed limit committee) it would be expected the desirability of day and night speeds would be considered," Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday.

Although full statistics are not available on daytime and night-time accidents, one section of the report of the 60-mile-an-hour speed limit committee says that on a test strip west of the road to Englishman's River Falls Park a concealed radar check showed that after dark 8 per cent of the cars were going over 65 miles an hour, but in the daytime hours only 2 per cent of the cars travelled over 65 miles an hour.

The section tested is in one of the new 60-mile-an-hour

zones and is on a straight stretch of first-class highway. The report does not indicate whether night-time speed-up is general everywhere.

In addition to relying on RCMP accident reports, the highways department has had its own radar cars out, merely to observe and not to enforce the laws.

It has found that 85 per cent of drivers obey the speed laws. Separate speed laws for trucks may also be considered by B.C. traffic officials.

It was pointed out yesterday that Alberta has a 60 and sometimes 65-mile-an-hour daytime speed limit for passenger cars and a 50-mile-an-hour after-dark speed limit. For trucks the Alberta speed limit on open highways is 50 miles an hour.

Separate Limits in Force

Manitoba has a 60 daytime speed limit and a 50 after-dark speed limit; Nova Scotia has a 60 speed limit for both trucks and cars at all times on open highways; Prince Edward Island limit is 50 for cars and 40 for trucks at all times, and Quebec has a 60 limit for cars and a 45 limit for trucks.

In the United States Massachusetts has a 40-mile-an-hour open highway speed limit for all vehicles and also has one of the best safety records on the continent.

Some 23 states in the U.S. have different speed limits on the open highways for day-time and after dark use. Some 24 have different speed limits (all slower) for trucks than for private cars. Four states have no specific speed limits.

but regulate speeds according to what is considered reasonable and prudent.

Fastest states on the continent are Illinois, Missouri and New Mexico where daytime 70-mile-an-hour speed limits exist on superhighways and long straight stretches.

In British Columbia, where 22 zones are now rated as 60-mile-an-hour zones, the highway death rate continues to climb with 39 deaths recorded so far in August, already five more than that for all of August last year.

"It seems to be more than a coincidence that the increased speed limit and the increase in highway deaths have been recorded within the last several months," motor vehicles superintendent George Lindsay said.

He made his statement after

Bennett Says:

Ready to Talk
With AlaskaSecret Jet
Bits Found

LONDON (AP) — A piece of wreckage found on a Welsh beach was identified Thursday as part of the secret Victor jet bomber which vanished on a test flight last Thursday. Ministry of Supply experts said the wreckage belonged to the plane, which presumably exploded high in the air. Five persons were aboard the big crescent-winged bomber.

Premier Bennett said Thursday his government is ready to discuss Alaska-British Columbia co-operation on northern development, but no formal approaches for a meeting have been made by either government.

He declined, however, to comment on the possibility of B.C. corridors through the Alaska Panhandle. The premier was commenting on a speech by Governor William Egan of the new state of Alaska at Kitimat Tuesday. The governor urged co-operation on power, development of new industries and on Panhandle corridors to give Alaskans access to the B.C. road system and B.C.-Yukon industry access to tidewater ports.

OTTAWA (CP)—Thirty days hath September, April, June . . . said defence counsel John Mirsky. "Case dismissed," said Magistrate Omer Chartrand, hearing a traffic charge dated June 31.

Premier Buys Bonds on Installment Plan

First man to buy a Pacific Great Eastern five per cent parity bond was PGE president, Premier Bennett, who yesterday ordered two $1,000 bonds on payroll deduction plan offered to civil servants and MLAs. He will have $172 a month deducted from his salary for 12 months, starting in November. The deduction is unlikely to pinch the premier financially—he has considerable private means. It will cost employees $8.60 a month for 12 months for $100 bond, described by premier as "better than money." Some $10,000,000 in bonds go on sale generally Sept. 1 and are effective Sept. 15. With the premier are, left, Peter F. Ramsay, personnel officer in department of finance, and right, economic adviser J. V. Fisher.

Slum Girl Rites
In Rich Church

By JACK V. FOX
NEW YORK (UPI)—A little Negro girl from the slums of the Lower East Side had her funeral last night in the richest and most famous church in all of New York.

Theresa Gee, 15, was given last rites in Trinity Church—where Alexander Hamilton's funeral was held 155 years ago and in whose tiny old graveyard at the head of Wall Street are buried such famous Americans as Robert Fulton.

'Let Peace
Be Her
Memorial'

Theresa Gee's claim to fame was that she was shot to death on the tenement streets Sunday night in another of the senseless and brutal juvenile gang wars that have terrorized New York all this hot summer.

Cyprus Slaying
Breaks Truce

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—Two gunmen killed a policeman yesterday in the first such incident since the Greek

Cypriot underground called it quits six months ago. Sgt. Selim Mustafa, 38, was ambushed at a service station in the Turkish quarter by two men in gangland style. The Turkish-Cypriot officer, a member of the police special branch, crumpled to the ground after the bandits fired a dozen shots from automatic pistols. The gunmen fled in a car.

It was reliably learned Mustafa had been investigating an underground Turkish youth organization.

Police officials declined to say whether the killing was of a political nature. Mustafa was the first policeman killed in Cyprus since last February when the Greek-Cypriot terrorist organization EOKA laid down its arms after Britain agreed to give the island independence.

Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot leaders have called for non-violence by their followers. But police recently found an ammunition dump during a raid.

Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, 43-year-old white Episcopal clergyman who served 40 wartime months aboard the cruiser Memphis, got permission to conduct the funeral in famous Trinity Church in an effort to spark shame and action out of New Yorkers. Myers blamed police, social workers, the clergy and the whole citizenry for Theresa's slaying. Then he looked down on a row of teen-agers of the Sportsmen gang, five Negroes and three whites. Theresa had been the girl friend of the Sportsmen "president" of the Sportsmen. "I say to you, if you cared about her, then let this be your memorial to her," he said.

"Let there be no more sudden death in the streets of the Lower East Side. Let no more innocent people fall to those streets. Banish all thoughts of retaliation. Have heart, real heart, like Our Lord Jesus Christ, who had courage."

Myers has his own parish at St. Augustine's Chapel in the heart of the old neighborhood of Jews, Negroes, Irish, Puerto Ricans and Chinese. Three years ago he had arranged a truce between the Sportsmen and the Forsyth Street gang, largely Puerto Rican. Until Sunday, that truce had stood.

Express
Crashes,
14 Die

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI)—The speeding Sarajevo-Zagreb express jumped the tracks and plunged into Dragoj River yesterday, killing 14 persons and injuring at least 40 others.

The accident was blamed on the high speed of the train and instability of a new section of track.

Usually-Calm City
Cheers and Weeps

LONDON (UPI)—Hundreds of thousands of weeping, cheering Britons turned out last night to welcome President Eisenhower who flew here from West Germany on the second lap of his dramatic Western European swing.

Police estimated that from 500,000 to "over 1,000,000" persons lined a 16-mile route from London Airport to the U.S. Embassy residence to hail the American president.

Normally staid Londoners wept unashamedly as Eisenhower drove through the streets of the city. They cried, "Well done, Ike," and "Hip, hip hooray."

V FOR VICTORY

Eisenhower, his eyes moist with emotion, waved happily to the crowd and made the "V" for victory sign.

The president had flown in from Bonn, where he had six hours of cold war talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer earlier yesterday.

'BOMB-RATTLING'

Eisenhower told an extraordinary news conference in the West German capital that he deplored "bomb-rattling" tactics in world diplomacy and that he believed his coming talks with Nikita Khrushchev might "melt the ice" of the cold war.

LOOKED FRESH

But the U.S. president still managed to look fresh when he stepped from his Boeing 707 jet transport plane when it touched down at London Airport.

In a formal speech at the airport, he pledged full U.S. support to Britain "in the defence of freedom, liberty and the dignity of man."

UNPRECEDENTED

Then he entered a Rolls Royce with Prime Minister Macmillan at his side and drove to the residence of U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney through crowd scenes that were almost unprecedented in the history of this city.

Wave upon wave of usually solemn Londoners smashed the thin blue lines of police that vainly tried to clear a path for the president's car.

A senior police official said: "I have been on the force for over 25 years and this is the largest crowd I have ever seen."

Europe's Highest

Incognito Cardinal
Masters Mountain

COURMAYEUR, Italy (AP)—The youngest cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church has climbed Europe's highest mountain.

Julius Cardinal Dopfner, 46-year-old Bishop of Berlin, climbed 15,781-foot Mont Blanc 11 days ago incognito with three other priests.

The four priests wore rough mountain clothing and identified themselves only to the parish priest at Courmayeur, whom the cardinal asked for permission to celebrate mass in his church. They pledged him to keep their identities secret until after they left.

The cardinal and his companions set out Aug. 16 with Alpine guide Aldo Ollier and his son, spent the night on straw in a hut with a group of Alpine soldiers and began the ascent at 1.30 a.m. They reached the top at 8 a.m. Later the parish priest told Ollier one of his customers had been a cardinal.

"If I'd known it, I wouldn't have used such a rough tone giving him orders during the climb," the guide said.

Summit
Farther Away?

BONN, Germany (AP)

President Eisenhower dropped a hint Thursday before leaving for London that the West may insist on another foreign ministers' conference at Geneva before any summit meeting takes place.

Authoritative informants indicated Chancellor Konrad Adenauer suggested a further meeting of foreign ministers when he and Eisenhower met Thursday.

A press conference remark by Eisenhower later seemed to indicate Adenauer's suggestion had met a favorable reception. Eisenhower said "any summit meeting . . . would be a grave mistake unless there was confidence among all of us that real progress of some kind could be achieved."

Such progress, the president continued, must be promised "by either further meeting or further consultation or conclusions of the foreign ministers—or in some other way."

He didn't say what the other way might be, but in response to a question he indicated he would be satisfied if "assurances . . . would be given publicly" by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Some officials said a meeting of the foreign ministers might be held in Geneva some time in November after the exchange of visits between Eisenhower and Khrushchev.

Chinese Attack
India

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Communist Chinese armed patrols have forced back a number of Indian border pickets in the northeast frontier agency, the Times of India reported today.

There was an exchange of fire but no casualties in at least one incident, the newspaper said.

Two days ago northeast frontier agency authorities denied a report published by the Assam Tribune saying that 1,000 Chinese troops armed with modern weapons had crossed the Indian border at the Nathu la Pass.

The report said the Chinese overwhelmed an Assam rifles border post and hoisted the Chinese flag about one mile inside India.

Novelist's Lament

No Cash, No Furs, No Caviar

LONDON (UPI)—Novelist A. J. Cronin complained yesterday that the Russians would not even pay him for caviar or furs for the 3,000,000 copies of his books sold in the U.S.S.R.

Cronin, author of "The Citadel" and "The Keys of the Kingdom," described his 23-year fight for Russian royalties in a letter to the editor of The Daily Telegraph.

"I began around 1936 on a note of justified indignation; when this failed I followed up with a plea to the committee's sense of undoubted fair play, and tried again some years later on a softer note, referring to the needs of my children and innumerable dependent and starving relations," he wrote. "Still the Soviet hearts refused to melt."

"The next effort, at a considerably later date, was facetious, as I suggested that if currency was not available, I offered to conclude the entire affair for a small consignment of beluga caviar," he added. "So far this has not arrived." "Meanwhile, I receive from my Russian readers an enormous effusive fan mail and requests for autographs and photographs. This is undoubtably the unkindest cut of all."

Cronin wrote the newspaper to commiserate with the heirs of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who were refused payment for Russian-language Sherlock Holmes books.

North of Prospect Lake

Firemen Hold Line
On 26-Acre BlazeSpreads
From
Garbage

A crew of 90 civilian firefighters last night fought to confine a 26-acre Saanich forest fire just north of Prospect Lake which spread into heavy brush from a garbage dump early yesterday.

British Columbia Forest Service officials hoped to hold the blaze under control until daylight today when bulldozers were due to resume the work of widening a fire guard around the flames.

The fire late last night was a mile from nearest houses, moving slowly north and east.

WORK MOUNTAIN

Scene of the blaze was the foothills of Work Mountain, eight miles northwest of Victoria, where for a time yesterday flames slashed unchecked through tinder-dry underbrush.

Efforts to keep the blaze in check within a narrow fire guard, which bulldozers completed just as darkness set in, was hampered by lack of water in the vicinity.

ACCESS ROUTE

Langford forest service ranger Ron Jones said the initial guard thrown around the blaze was merely an "access" route and could not be expected to hold the flames in check if high winds came up.

Firefighters posted around the perimeter of the guard, which was gouged out of brush, timber and broken rock by five bulldozers, hoped to be able to prevent flames from jumping into adjacent stands of timber.

BROKE GUARD

The fire broke through one section of the fire guard around 6 p.m. yesterday but a sudden change in wind direction stopped it from spreading more than a few hundred feet.

Ranger Jones said that unless high winds hit the area the bulldozers should be able to widen the guard early today and thus prevent further spread.

MOP-UP NEAR

"We hope to have it in the mop-up stages by late in the afternoon," he said.

Saanich fire department sent officials to the scene yesterday afternoon following reports the blaze was spreading onto municipal property.

CARDBOARD BLOWN

But after assessing the situation they agreed to let the B.C. Forest Service carry on. Smoldering pieces of cardboard from the garbage dump where the fire started were blown as far as two miles by winds yesterday afternoon.

SERIES FEARED

Saanich firemen were afraid the burning particles might start a series of bush fires in the area, but up to late last night none had been reported.

Forest officials say the fire broke out of the garbage dump around 9 or 10 a.m. yesterday.

FIRST TO FIGHT

Employees and equipment of a city garbage contractor were first to fight the flames.

Forest service men took over the task of controlling the fire shortly after noon and by 5 p.m. some 40 men, a water tank-truck and five bulldozers were at work.

Helped Win Gold Stake

No complaint of gold rush days hardships was made by Mrs. Victoria Roberts, former gold panner who is attending, sourdough convention here. (Photo by Boucher.)

One of First in Rush

Lady Sourdough
Took Up Needle
Between Nuggets

Most women today don't find life as tough as did Victoria-born Mrs. Victoria Roberts, now of Los Angeles, who near the turn of the century spent a great deal of time on her knees panning for gold in Alaska.

Mrs. Roberts, her husband Jack and young daughter Mona, were among the first arrivals at Fairbanks, during the gold rush of 1904.

She is among the crowd of old-timers attending the International Sourdoughs Convention at the Empress Hotel. Her husband, a past-president of the group, was unable to attend because of ill health.

Rigorous existence in a frontier boom town didn't appear to leave any mark on the soft-spoken, quiet little woman chatting with lumbering old-timers who really looked like sourdoughs.

Her adventure started right here in Victoria 59 years ago, when the former Miss Victoria Penketh married a tailor from Ferrisboro, Nova Scotia.

In 1902 the handsome young John E. Roberts went alone to Dawson City in the Yukon, where he opened a tailor shop. Two years later, Victoria took her child to Dawson, where they were living when news came of a strike in Fairbanks.

SOLD SHOP

They sold their shop and joined the rush. On a claim staked in the wilderness they panned the stream for seven or eight years before finding a "pay streak" that netted them enough money to live comfortably for a number of years to follow.

Times were hard until they made their strike, she said. "Every time we went broke, my husband would open up his tailor shop. He had an iron and a pair of scissors and that was all he needed to make some money for us to carry on."

"I couldn't sew well enough to satisfy him, so every night he would fire me, and he'd hire me again the next day," Mrs. Roberts recalled.

WALKED BACK

The family left Fairbanks twice to visit relatives. On both occasions they came down stream on a river boat but on the return trip had to walk 326 miles from the boat terminal at Valdez to their home.

"We once walked 340 miles through the snow from Kamishna to Fairbanks," she said. They later moved to Anchorage and built the first two-

Arena
Profit

$29,000

Victoria Memorial Arena produced a net profit of $28,904 for its latest fiscal year, according to financial statements released by the city yesterday.

Of this amount, $25,000 was paid to the city to help defray debt service and principal payments totalling $65,262 for the year.

Public skating at the arena continued to be the highest single revenue producer, showing a return of $38,967.

Concessions returned a profit of $20,945 and skate shop operations $3,515.

Special events and building rentals brought a gross return of $15,055 and the sport producing the highest return was professional hockey with $12,629.

Lacrosse brought in $8,914 and amateur hockey $4,667.

Detective's Return
Delayed by Storm

Bad weather delayed yesterday's arrival here of Det. Sgt. Joe Armstrong, who was to be flown by ambulance aircraft from Bozeman, Mont.

Mrs. Ruby Armstrong and her two children left Bozeman yesterday morning en route by train to Seattle.

They are expected to arrive in Victoria about noon on the ferry from Seattle.

It was hoped last night that the Saanich policeman, injured in the recent earthquake in Yellowstone Park, will be flown here sometime today, said Saanich police chief W. A. Pearson.

SIU Will Be Off the Coast
By Christmas, Says RivalMore Tourists Here
But Spending Less

Victoria's 1959 tourist season, with less than a month to run, has been roughly comparable with last year "and below expectations," tourist commissioner George I. Warren said yesterday.

"We have had more tourists but they have spent a lot less money than ever before," he said.

It was on early indications of more tourists that hope for a bumper year was based. The commissioner blamed the premium Canadian dollar for part of the slump in tourist purchases and added that the U.S. steel strike had had an unsettling effect upon thousands of prospective tourist families.

He said the state of Oregon has undoubtedly sidetracked some of the purchasing power of tourists with its extensive campaign to sell itself as a place to shop because it has no sales tax.

Many tourists have objected to the five per cent discount of American funds in Canada and many more balk at B.C.'s five per cent sales tax, he said.

One of the reasons tourists have left less money behind here this year than in the past is that they are not staying long in one place, Mr. Warren went on.

This, he said, is a result of improved roads in British Columbia and a sudden tourist yen to see as many square miles of territory as possible in the shortest possible time.

91 Days Across Pacific

Warship Tow
Due in Japan

The Victoria tug Cambrian Salvor was scheduled to arrive off Yokohama at midnight Thursday, Pacific Daylight Time, after completing a 10,000-mile tow with a Chilean battleship in 91 days.

Island Tug and Barge Ltd. officials said last night that the powerful tug, skippered by Dutch Captain James van Komodo, was to take a pilot aboard in the late afternoon of Aug. 28, Japan time, which is about 18 hours ahead.

Harold Elworthy, president of Island Tug and Barge, flew to Japan to be on hand for the welcome. He left Vancouver by CPA Wednesday night accompanied by his wife.

The tug delivered the 30,000-ton battleship Almirante Latorre three days ahead of schedule despite a brush with Hurricane Dot which forced it to heave to for more than 24 hours. The battleship will be scrapped.

Cemetery
Project
Cleared

The provincial cabinet yesterday paved the way for construction of a cemetery in the Goldstream area along the Humpback Road.

The Public Utilities Commission had given the Memorial Gardens Association (Canada) Ltd. permission to build the cemetery, but had held it up when there were a number of complaints.

The appellants have since decided not to pursue their complaints further and the appeals were dismissed yesterday by cabinet order-in-council.

The Seafarers International Union will be "off the West Coast by Christmas," a rival union spokesman said last night.

The prophecy was made as argument flared up yesterday between the two unions seeking to represent personnel of Island Tug and Barge Ltd. in Victoria.

In Vancouver the rival union—the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers—challenged the SIU, recently expelled from the Canadian Labor Congress, to an open vote on all B.C. shipping lines. It said if it lost it should withdraw from the coast.

Vern Calkins, B.C. representative for the brotherhood, said last night that his union has applied for certification of Island Tug and Barge and 15 other coast shipping firms—"and in every case we've got a good majority vote."

"The men want us because they know there is no democracy in the SIU," he said.

But Rod Heinekey, Vancouver port agent for the SIU, said his union was "in Victoria to stay and there is no hope of a changeover."

He charged the brotherhood with intimidation of SIU members to get them to sign up as members of the brotherhood and claimed "now they are flocking back to the SIU."

"Ridiculous," retorted Mr. Calkins. "We have evidence to prove that only one out of 400 who signed with us has revoked his signature."

"The men very definitely are coming over to our organization and no intimidation is being used to get them. It's all happening so fast that if the pace continues the SIU will be forced to leave the West Coast by Christmas in search of some place where their unsavory record isn't known."

G. A. Vantreight

Saanich Pioneer,
Bulb Expert Dies

Well-known city fruit and bulb grower, and pioneer resident of the Gordon Head area, Geoffrey Arthur Vantreight, 79, died yesterday in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Born in 1880 in Dublin, Ireland, he came to the Gordon Head district with his family in 1884.

As a young man at the turn of the century he was active in sports and community affairs, and was a charter member and eventually trustee of the Gordon Head Community Hall Association formed in the early 1900s.

He was a member of the first Saanich school board around 1909, and of Saanich council for 11 years following the First World War.

He was also one of the first car-owners in Victoria, his first vehicle being a 1910 Cadillac.

But it was as a farmer he was known and respected. For many years he was known as the "strawberry king" of the area, and when the Dominion Experimental Farm moved to Victoria, it first set up shop on the "bottom seven" acres of his farm.

He was a member of Vancouver-Quadra Lodge No. 2 and Mount Newton Lodge No. 89, AF & AM.

He is survived by his wife Hilda Mary at the residence, 4423 Tyndall; two sons, Geoffrey, Jr., and Gordon of Victoria; two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Stevens of St. Catharines, Ont., and Mrs. G. H. Lokar of New Orleans; two brothers, Sydney and Edgar of Victoria; three sisters, Miss Elsie Vantreight, Mrs. Evelyn McConnell and Mrs. W. H. Lester of Victoria; 12 grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be announced later by McCall Brothers.

Alberni Stands Ready to Help

ALBERNI — Co-operation has been offered by Alberni city council if official opening ceremonies are contemplated by the department of highways in connection with the Tofino-Alberni road.

A motion was passed authorizing inquiries of the department as to intentions in regards opening ceremonies.

Council also agreed to inquire into possibility of obtaining paintings by the late Rose Colpman to be hung in council chambers.

Request of the Ladies Auxiliary to Alberni Guides, Brownies and Rangers for permission to hold meetings in the council chambers was granted along with a request of Alberni Valley Lions Club for permission to hold the club's annual peanut drive on Sept. 22.

Council agreed to amend the garbage collection bylaw. Any premises from which no garbage is collected and for which the sanitary inspector and fire chief have certified that no garbage will be disposed will have the charge reduced to $7.

Building permits totalling $16,300 were approved at the meeting.

ALBERNI — A 23-year-old man was committed for trial after a preliminary hearing yesterday on a charge of breaking and entering.

Edward A. Coss of Alberni, charged in connection with a break-in at Bob's Service Station, Beaver Creek Road, earlier this month, had elected trial by judge without jury.

Magistrate W. E. Macleod set bail of $4,500 on three sureties for Coss.

During the hearing, another young man, Tara Singh Rai, who had also been charged and had pleaded guilty to the service station break-in and theft, gave evidence. He had been sentenced in magistrate's court to a year's suspended sentence.

Among the exhibits in Coss' hearing were two white socks containing money.

COBBLE HILL — Mrs. John Hilton of Mill Bay has been appointed acting chairman of the newly-formed Koksilah Valley Taxpayers' Association.

She said yesterday the move was made "to fill the gap" until a general meeting could be called next month when members will be back from holidays.

Directors are Ralph Dowling, Mill Bay; George Bonner and Archie Sinclair, Cobble Hill; Andrew Bigg, Bamerton; Mrs. C. R. March and Donald Ferguson, Sylvania; Ray Hamilton, Mrs. W. J. Cotford, Mrs. Fred MacPherson, Shawigan Lake.

The group was formed from the ratepayers group which was launched to oppose the $1,500,000 school bylaw in Cowichan school district which was passed last month.

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni District Fall Fair Association will again sponsor a Veterans' Land Act small-holding development competition.

Prizes of $15 and $10 will be awarded on opening night of the fall fair, Sept. 10, to "small holders" with first and second standing.

A committee will judge all VLA holdings in the area, selecting those with outstanding improvements for the awards.

Regional supervisor G. L. Chatterton will head the committee.

DUNCAN — A department of transport employee, who pleaded guilty to a charge of throwing a partially-filled beer carton from a moving car admitted in court yesterday that it was a "very, very foolish thing to do."

"Too much of it goes on... it's silly," Magistrate A. C. Sutton told George Tillman of Victoria and fined him $10.

Police said a constable on patrol passed the car Tillman was a passenger in and saw "a bottle being tilted" and as he took chase a carton was thrown from the car.

PORT ALBERNI — No word has yet been received from the provincial government on possibility of an early start on re-routing of Stamp Avenue.

Mayor Loran Jordan reported to council meeting that he had telephoned the deputy minister of highways, H. T. Miard, during the previous week and was told that the treasury officials had not yet signified if funds will be available for the project.

The mayor said that the highways department is aware that costs of the job will be higher if work is left until good weather is over.

Night Limit For Speed Considered

Reliable sources indicated yesterday that British Columbia traffic officials will initiate a study of whether establishing different night and day speed limits on provincial highways is desirable.

"In view of the findings of the report (by the 60-mile-an-hour speed limit committee) it would be expected the desirability of day and night speeds would be considered," Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday.

Although full statistics are not available on daytime and night-time accidents, one section of the report of the 60-mile-an-hour speed limit committee says that on a test strip west of the road to Englishman's River Falls Park a concealed radar check showed that after dark 8 per cent of the cars were going over 65 miles an hour, but in the daytime hours only 2 per cent of the cars travelled over 65 miles an hour.

The section tested is in one of the new 60-mile-an-hour

zones and is on a straight stretch of first-class highway. The report does not indicate whether night-time speedup is general everywhere.

In addition to relying on RCMP accident reports, the highways department has had its own radar cars out, merely to observe and not to enforce the laws.

It has found that 85 per cent of drivers obey the speed laws. Separate speed laws for trucks may also be considered by B.C. traffic officials.

It was pointed out yesterday that Alberta has a 60 and sometimes 65-mile-an-hour daytime speed limit for passenger cars and a 50-mile-an-hour after-dark speed limit. For trucks the Alberta speed limit on open highways is 50 miles an hour.

Separate Limits in Force

Manitoba has a 60 daytime speed limit, a 50 after-dark speed limit and a 50 limit for trucks at all times; Nova Scotia has a 60 speed limit for both trucks and cars at all times on open highways; Prince Edward Island limit is 50 for cars and 40 for trucks at all times, and Quebec has a 60 limit for cars and a 45 limit for trucks.

In the United States Massachusetts has a 40-mile-an-hour open highway speed limit for all vehicles and also has one of the best safety records on the continent.

Some 23 states in the U.S. have different speed limits on the open highways for daytime and after dark use. Some 34 have different speed limits (all slower) for trucks than for private cars. Four states have no specific speed limits, but regulate speeds according to what is considered reasonable and prudent.

Fastest states on the continent are Illinois, Missouri and New Mexico where daytime 70-mile-an-hour speed limits exist on superhighways and long straight stretches.

In British Columbia, where 22 zones are now rated as 60-mile-an-hour zones, the highway death rate continues to climb with 39 deaths recorded so far in August, already five more than that for all of August last year.

"It seems to be more than a coincidence that the increased speed limit and the increase in highway deaths have been recorded within the last several months," motor vehicle superintendent George Lindsay said. He made his statement after

First man to buy a Pacific Great Eastern five per cent parity bond was PGE president, Premier Bennett, who yesterday ordered two $1,000 bonds on payroll deduction plan offered to civil servants and MLAs. He will have $172 a month deducted from his salary for 12 months, starting in November. The deduction is unlikely to pinch the premier financially—he has considerable private means. It will cost employees $8.60 a month for 12 months for $100 bond, described by premier as "better than money." Some $10,000,000 in bonds go on sale generally Sept. 1 and are effective Sept. 15. With the premier are, left, Peter F. Ramsay, personnel officer in department of finance, and right, economic adviser J. V. Fisher.

Slum Girl Rites In Rich Church

By JACK V. FOX
NEW YORK (UPI)—A little Negro girl from the slums of the Lower East Side had her funeral last night in the richest and most famous church in all of New York.

Theresa Gee, 15, was given last rites in Trinity Church, where Alexander Hamilton's funeral was held 155 years ago, and in whose tiny old graveyard at the head of Wall Street are buried such famous Americans as Robert Fulton.

'Let Peace Be Her Memorial'

Theresa Gee's claim to fame was that she was shot to death on the tenement streets Sunday night in another of the senseless and brutal juvenile gang wars that have terrorized New York all this hot summer.

Cyprus Slaying Breaks Truce

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—Two gunmen killed a policeman yesterday in the first such incident since the Greek-

Cypriot underground called it quits six months ago. Sgt. Selim Mustafa, 38, was ambushed at a service station in the Turkish quarter by two men in gangland style. The Turkish-Cypriot officer, a member of the police special branch, crumpled to the ground after the bandits fired a dozen shots from automatic pistols. The gunmen fled in a car.

It was reliably learned Mustafa had been investigating an underground Turkish youth organization. Police officials declined to say whether the killing was of a political nature. Mustafa was the first policeman killed in Cyprus since last February when the Greek-Cypriot terrorist organization EOKA laid down its arms after Britain agreed to give the island independence.

Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot leaders have called for non-violence by their followers. But police recently found an ammunition dump during a raid.

Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, 43-year-old white Episcopal clergyman who served 40 war-time months aboard the cruiser Memphis, got permission to conduct the funeral in famous Trinity Church in an effort to spark shame and action out of New Yorkers.

Myers blamed police, social workers, the clergy and the whole citizenry for Theresa's slaying. Then he looked down on a row of teenagers of the Sportsmen gang, five Negroes and three whites. Theresa had been the girl friend of the "president" of the Sportsmen.

"I say to you, if you cared about her, then let this be your memorial to her," he said.

"Let there be no more sudden death in the streets of the Lower East Side. Let no more innocent people fall to those streets. Banish all thoughts of retaliation. Have heart, real heart like Our Lord Jesus Christ, who had courage."

Myers has his own parish at St. Augustine's Chapel in the heart of the old neighborhood of Jews, Negroes, Irish, Puerto Ricans and Chinese. Three years ago he had arranged a truce between the Sportsmen and the Forsyth Street gang, largely Puerto Rican. Until Sunday, that truce had stood.

Express Crashes, 14 Die

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI)—The speeding Sarajevo-Zagreb express jumped the tracks and plunged into Dragojci River yesterday, killing 14 persons and injuring at least 40 others. The accident was blamed on the high speed of the train and instability of a new section of track.

'Well Done' London Cries

LONDON (UPI)—Hundreds of thousands of weeping, cheering Britons turned out last night to welcome President Eisenhower who flew here from West Germany on the second lap of his dramatic Western European swing.

Police estimated that from 500,000 to "over 1,000,000" persons lined a 16-mile route from London Airport to the U.S. Embassy residence to hail the American president.

Normally staid Londoners wept unashamedly as Eisenhower drove through the streets of the city. They cried, "Well done, Ike," and "Hip, hip hooray."

V FOR VICTORY

Eisenhower, his eyes moist with emotion, waved happily to the crowd and made the "V" for victory sign.

The president had flown in from Bonn, where he had six hours of cold war talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

'BOMB-RATTLING'

Eisenhower told an extraordinary news conference in the West German capital that he deplored "bomb-rattling" tactics in world diplomacy and that he believed his coming talks with Nikita Khrushchev might "melt the ice" of the cold war.

LOOKED FRESH

But the U.S. president still managed to look fresh when he stepped from his Boeing 707 jet at London Airport.

In a formal speech at the airport, he pledged full U.S. support to Britain "in the defence of freedom, liberty and the dignity of man."

UNPRECEDENTED

Then he entered a Rolls Royce with Prime Minister Macmillan at his side and drove to the residence of U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney through crowd scenes that were almost unprecedented in the history of this city.

Wave upon wave of usually solemn Londoners smashed the thin blue lines of police that vainly tried to clear a path for the president's car.

A senior police official said: "I have been on the force for over 25 years and this is the largest crowd I have ever seen."

Today Eisenhower left London by RAF jetliner to visit Queen Elizabeth at Balmoral Castle.

Summit Farther Away?

BONN, Germany (AP)—President Eisenhower dropped a hint Thursday before leaving for London that the West may insist on another foreign ministers' conference at Geneva before any summit meeting takes place.

Authoritative informants indicated Chancellor Konrad Adenauer suggested a further meeting of foreign ministers when he and Eisenhower met Thursday.

A press conference remark by Eisenhower later seemed to indicate Adenauer's suggestion had met a favorable reception.

Eisenhower said any summit meeting . . . would be a grave mistake unless there was confidence among all of us that real progress of some kind could be achieved.

Such progress, the president continued, must be promised "by either further meeting or further consultation or conclusions of the foreign ministers—or in some other way."

He didn't say what the other way might be, but in response to a question he indicated he would be satisfied if "assurances . . . would be given publicly" by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Some officials said a meeting of the foreign ministers might be held in Geneva some time in November after the exchange of visits between Eisenhower and Khrushchev.

Europe's Highest

Incognito Cardinal Masters Mountain

COURMAYEUR, Italy (AP)—The youngest cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church has climbed Europe's highest mountain.

Julius Cardinal Dopfner, 46-year-old Bishop of Berlin, climbed 15,781-foot Mont Blanc 11 days ago incognito with three other priests.

The four priests wore rough mountain clothing and identified themselves only to the parish priest at Courmayeur, whom the cardinal asked for permission to celebrate mass in his church. They pledged him to keep their identities secret until after they left.

The cardinal and his companions set out Aug. 16 with Alpine guide Aldo Ollier and his son, spent the night on straw in a hut with a group of Alpine soldiers and began the ascent at 1:30 a.m. They reached the top at 8 a.m.

Later the parish priest told Ollier one of his customers had been a cardinal.

"If I'd known it, I wouldn't have used such a rough tone giving him orders during the climb," the guide said.

Chinese Attack India

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru told the Indian Parliament today that the Chinese Communists have forcibly occupied Indian territory in the Ladakh region of Kashmir state despite Indian protests.

The Chinese, he said, had claimed the territory as their own and had arrested an Indian reconnaissance party which had been sent to the border.

Two days ago northeast frontier agency authorities denied a report published by the Assam Tribune saying that 1,000 Chinese troops armed with modern weapons had crossed the Indian border at the Nathu la Pass.

Novelist's Lament

No Cash, No Furs, No Caviar

LONDON (UPI)—Novelist A. J. Cronin complained yesterday that the Russians would not even pay him in caviar or furs for the 3,000,000 copies of his books sold in the U.S.S.R.

Cronin, author of "The Citadel" and "The Keys of the Kingdom," described his 23-year fight for Russian royalties in a letter to the editor of The Daily Telegraph.

"I began around 1936 on a note of justified indignation; when this failed I followed up with a plea to the committee's sense of undoubted fair play, and tried again some years later on a softer note, referring to the needs of my children and innumerable dependent and starving relations," he wrote. "Still the Soviet hearts refused to melt."

"The next effort, at a considerably later date, was facetious, as I suggested that if currency was not available a fur coat for my wife would be very acceptable. This was treated with contemptuous silence. Cronin then suggested payment in the form of a trip to Russia because he "wanted to see the pictures in the Hermitage (Leningrad art gallery) before an errand missile from Cape Canaveral should disperse them."

He had no luck with these tactics. "Finally, at the beginning of this year, in despair, I offered to conclude the entire affair for a small consignment of beluga caviar," he added. "So far this has not arrived."

"Meanwhile, I receive from my Russian readers an enormous effusive fan mail and requests for autographs and photographs. This is undoubtedly the unkindest cut of all."

Cronin wrote the newspaper to commiserate with the heirs of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who were refused payment for Russian-language Sherlock Holmes books.

Russia Won't Pay
